Captain, Helmsman Meet Heroic Deaths In Buffalo Harbor

BUFFALO, Oct. 30 (AP)—At least seven men are dead and five missing today after the flaming collision of three vessels in Buffalo harbor.

A charred mass of bodies was found this morning in the cabin of the tug Dauntless. Three bodies had been recovered earlier.

The Great Lakes freighter Penobscot rammed the loaded oil barge Morania shortly after 9 last night and the barge exploded. Its 800,000 gallons of gasoline showered the freighter and the tug, which was pushing the barge.

The 454-foot, 6,500-ton freighter was one of the largest on the Great Lakes.

The cause of the accident was not determined. The harbor was dark, but the night was clear. The Coast Guard and owners of the craft are investigating.

The Penobscot, which had unloaded a grain cargo Sunday, was leaving the harbor for Detroit and Duluth. The barge was inbound.

The Coast Guard said the pile of bodies found on the tug could account for the six members of the crew that had been listed as missing. The body of one unidentified tug crewman had been found earlier. The captain escaped with minor injuries.

Captain Louis Guyette of the Penobscot and his helmsman, Roy Richardson, 36, both of Port Huron, Mich., died heroically in the freighter's pilot house. Their bodies also were recovered earlier.

At least 13 of the 40 crewmen reported aboard the three vessels were injured, apparently not seriously, the Coast Guard said.

Guyette and his helmsman stayed at their posts to back the freighter away from the burning barge. They rammed their vessel's stern into a dock, so that several crewmen were able to slide down a rope to safety.

"The captain saved us! The captain saved us!" screamed Jimmy Hasette, an 18-year-old deckhand shipping for the second time. Tears streamed down his cheeks.

Edward Myers, 37, a watchman on the Penobscot and an old hand on the lake, described his skipper's heroism:

"The old man and Roy stayed in the tower, put her in reverse and sent her back toward the dock. They were both dead when we rammed the dock. I tied a line and about 12 of us slid down it."

The bodies of Guyette and Richardson were found in the forward deckhouse.

Thousands watched firemen battle the blaze during the night.

Yugoslavs Ask For A-Bombs

Would Bolster Line, General Points Out

BELGRADE, Oct. 30 (AP)—A top-ranking Yugoslav general said today Yugoslavia would like to have some American atomic bombs and possibly other atomic weapons to bolster her defenses against the Soviet Union.

General Petko Depcevic, deputy chief of staff, threw out this suggestion today while giving an interview to members of a group of 14 American newspapermen touring Europe.

Depcevic estimated that the Soviet may have 100 atom bombs. He said he thinks the United States may have about 600.

"We would like to have some of them," he said. "We could use them well. We are in a good position to use them."

The general said the next war will see the use of certain atomic weapons.

Russia, he added, was ready militarily to attack Yugoslavia in 1948, when the Soviets cut off the Yugoslav Communists from the Cominform, but did not do so for fear of the U.S. atom bombs.

Now, he declared, Yugoslavia is ready to defend herself against any aggressor with weapons now available. But, he added, this country wants as much modern equipment as possible from the United States.

Fire Razes Building At Ohio Boys Village

WOOSTER, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—Fire early today destroyed the office building and all the records of Boys Village, Inc., at near-by Smithville.

The two cottages which house the 28 boys in the institution and the farmhouse and outbuildings on its 120-acre farm were not damaged. No one was hurt.

Damage was estimated at $40,000.

Organized in 1947, the village provides a home for neglected boys, not necessarily orphans.

McKinney Set As Democrats' New Chairman

Indiana Banker's O.K. Due Tomorrow By Party Committee

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—Frank E. McKinney, an Irish banker who pulled Indiana Democrats out of the red in 1948, is all set to become the Democrats' next national chairman—a fund-raising job—tomorrow.

The 47-year-old son of a fireman announced last night that he had agreed two days before to accept the party's top.

Just a few hours earlier, the outgoing chairman, William M. Boyle Jr., gave McKinney his support, explaining that he'd talked with President Truman about the matter.

That indication of the President's approval makes McKinney's choice a virtual cinch that when the Democratic national committee meets in Washington tomorrow.

McKinney himself, who has dabbled in baseball, radio, real estate and even pipe lines on the side, is sure enough of his election to check the airline schedules for commuting between Indianapolis and Washington.

He said he plans to stay in Washington from Monday through Thursday each week and spend his three-day week ends with his family and at the Fidelity Trust Co., a bank he has served as president since he was 30.

After Jan. 1, the schedule would change to permit full-time work in Washington through the election campaign.

McKinney told reporters one of the conditions of his acceptance was his promise to resign as an officer of the U. S. Pipe Line Co., which is trying to get steel priorities from the government.

Boyle figured in Senate investigations of alleged political influence in loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corp. He insisted, however, that he did nothing wrong and gave health as the reason for his resignation, which he announced Oct. 13.

McKinney said he agreed to resign his office in the pipe line company and to dispose of all his stock. He described himself as a "large stockholder" in the firm.

"Furthermore," he said, "I'll state here and now that so long as I am national chairman, no company with which I am affiliated or interested in will ever enter the doors of a government bureau or agency seeking favors or considerations of any type or character."

Big 3 Aids To Meet

LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden arranged today to meet his American and French opposite numbers in Paris early next week.

Wellsville-Family Shaken In Car Wreck

A Wellsville couple and their daughter returned home Monday night, still shaken but hurt only slightly, in a traffic mishap that demolished their 1941 car Saturday afternoon.

James Anderson, 1615 Riverside Ave., escaped with minor bruises, his wife, Althea, suffered an injured kneecap, and their daughter, Louise, 8, received a few scratches when their car rolled over twice near New Erie, W. Va.

They were forced off the narrow road by a truck, relatives said.

Army Goods Moved In Dock Strike

Tie-up Continues, However, At Other Key Eastern Ports

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Insurgent stevedores ended their boycott of military piers today, but otherwise there was only a small dent in the dock strike that has immobilized the world's biggest port.

For the first time since the billion dollar, 16-day waterfront shutdown began, defense loading and unloading jobs apparently were fully manned by regular longshore crews.

Picket lines disappeared from the military docks in Staten Island, Jersey City and at Brooklyn's huge Army base, where more than 500 rebel strikers streamed back to work.

But elsewhere along the miles of idle docks, pickets still marched. Only on one Hudson River pier did non-strikers succeed for a second day in circumventing the picket barriers.

At Pier 90, where the big British liner Queen Elizabeth is berthed, two gangs of longshoremen shuttled past a jeering, pushing mob of 250 strikers held back by police.

Here and there, fist fights flared about the dock. But there was no general disorder. Police detained one picket temporarily.

The more than 20,000 strikers, here and in Boston, are in revolt against a new contract and have defied orders of Joseph Ryan, president of the A.F.L. International Longshoremen Association, to return to work.

But while Ryan was being challenged by his own east coast stevedores, he himself was challenging the leadership of west coast longshore boss Harry Bridges.

In San Francisco, a new Ryan dock local today signed a contract with the Isthmian Steamship Co., breaching the domination that Bridges' union has held on west coast stevedore contracts.

John J. Sampson, leader of the wildcat dock strike in the east, agreed yesterday to the lifting of the blockade of military cargoes, but said strikers "will stand united and continue the strike" against other shipping.

Sampson's statement somewhat dimmed earlier hopes that a settlement was near.

The promising signs had come in a statement by a New York state mediator, in the strikers' agreement with the Army and in a back-to-work move among Staten Island longshoremen.

Customs officials said last night that a record 122 vessels and 132 piers are immobilized.

Truman Signs Death Of Penny Post Card

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Truman today signed the postal rate increase bill which dooms the penny post card as part of a 17-million-dollar annual boost in postal charges.

The new two-cent rate on post cards will go into effect Feb. 1. In addition, there will be a 10 per cent boost in mailing charges for newspapers and magazines next April 1. Two other 10 per cent increases on this type of mail will take effect April 1, 1953, and April 1, 1954, making a 30 per cent increase in all.

An increase in the charge for third-class mail—largely circulars and advertising—will take place July 1, 1952. This is achieved by boosting the minimum bulk rate from one cent to one and a half cents a piece.

Charges for most post office special services—such as insured mail, special delivery, registered mail and C.O.D. deliveries—will go up next Feb. 1.

The special delivery stamp will be 20 cents instead of the present 15.

George Crossen Hurt Badly In Route 7 Wreck

George Crossen, 38, of 807 St. Clair Ave. is reported in "fair" condition at the East Liverpool Osteopathic Hospital with injuries received in a collision Monday on Route 7, two miles North of Empire.

The hospital said Crossen received a crushed chest, fractured right collarbone, possible fractured ribs and lacerations to the face and head.

The State Highway Patrol at Winterville said Crossen collided with a tractor-trailer truck being backed onto the highway by Abram Dombach, 20, of Millersville, Pa. He was fined $25 and costs by Mayor Harry Hamilton of Toronto on a charge of improper backing.

Extensive damage was reported to Crossen's car.

Crossen is employed on a dredge working near Empire and was en route to work.

Tax Kills Lotteries In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Allied Lottery today announced its suspension because of increased taxes.

Ticket purchasers also reported most of San Francisco's many other lotteries are going out of business because of the new 10 per cent federal tax on gross gambling receipts. The tax is effective Thursday.

Allied sells about 2,000 tickets weekly at $1 each and gives about $1,300 in prizes.

Red Students In Iran Lash U.S., Britain

Smash Police Lines In Defiant Parade Through Teheran

TEHERAN, Oct. 30 (AP)—Five thousand Communist-led students, shouting "Down with British and American imperialists!", battled past barricading police today and paraded in defiance through Teheran's streets.

At least 20 were injured in a brief, bloody clash outside the gates of Teheran University.

Students, including many girls, charged through heavy police lines and wielded fists, bricks and sticks to break the cordon drawn up to keep them inside the university area. The government had banned their scheduled pro-Egyptian, anti-British parade.

Once the demonstrators broke through, the estimated 2,000 police and steel-helmeted army troops made no further effort to use force.

The students carried huge banners proclaiming support for Egypt's effort to oust Britain from the Suez Canal and denouncing "Anglo-American imperialism" in Egypt and the Middle East.

The university, about a mile from the center of Teheran, consists of a number of squat, modern buildings within an iron-fenced compound.

It has been the scene of frequent Tudeh (Communist party) disorders in the past. The government has declared the Tudeh illegal, but the party's underground activities, particularly among youths, recently have been on the increase.

Shouting "Death to the United States" and cheering Russia, the students kept up their noisy demonstration for an hour in parliament square. Thousands of police and soldiers guarded the parliament building gates.

The students were defying a cabinet decree banning public demonstrations in that square, where more than 20 were killed in the July 15 rioting.

Communist Medical Student Ali Shahidi said in a speech: "We will send the British and American imperialists in our land to their graves. We join our Egyptian brothers who have arisen to smash the British yoke. We will not budge until the freedom of all enslaved nations of the east is secured."

Other speakers used terms like "the vile American imperialists" and the "rotten British."

Approval was shouted for resolutions denouncing the Americans and British and praising Egypt, Red China, Indo-China, Korea, Malaya and other areas where the Reds are active. Speeches were made against the proposed western defense bloc for the Middle East.

More Guard Calls To Bring Biggest Peacetime Army

TOKYO, Oct. 30 (AP)—General J. Lawton Collins said today the United States next year will have its largest peacetime army in history—equal to 27 divisions—with the call-up of three more National Guard divisions to federal duty.

The chief of staff did not name the three divisions to be called.

Collins indicated the 27-division force may not be the eventual goal. He said America's armed strength will be dictated by "what is warranted."

Collins made the statement at an informal gathering of officers of the 16th Army Corps and the Japanese northern command at Sendai.

A release from corps headquarters said Collins listed the 27-division army at 12 Regular Army divisions, nine National Guard divisions, including three to be called, and regimental-sized units to make up the remainder.

Collins warned against "militant communism" and remarked that Communist aggression in Korea had brought America to her feet militarily.

He said the U.S. will retain troops in Japan for some time as a buffer to "ruthless Communist imperialism."

"A threat to Japan is a threat to the Eighth Army" fighting in Korea, he said. The job being done by American security forces in Japan, he continued, is linked directly with the war in Korea.

PARADE AGAINST BRITISH. Parading through the streets of Cairo, throngs of demonstrators carried banners calling for a boycott of all British goods in memory of the Egyptians who lost their lives "from British bullets" in the recent anti-British riots. Signs say that "each piaster (five-cent piece) spent for British goods is a bullet in the heart of an Egyptian."

Third A-Blast Biggest Yet In Current Tests

Las Vegas Fails To Feel Shock From Mushrooming Cloud

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 30 (AP)—The third atomic detonation in the Atomic Energy Commission's current test series—a bright glow in the sky northwest of here—went off early this morning.

It was the largest of the present series, which has included a baby blast from a tower and a slightly more spectacular drop from a plane.

About a minute after the flash, a column of mushrooming cloud literally shot up into the sky.

The light itself was white, much like a giant camera flash bulb. There was a light purple tinge at the start.

There was no shock felt in Las Vegas within the time limit necessary for sound waves normally to travel from the Yucca flat range more than 75 miles from here.

That would indicate that it was considerably less severe than several during a series last February, two of which broke windows in Las Vegas.

Presumably, today's, like last Sunday's, was a drop from an airplane. The airplanes between here and Albuquerque, N. M., were ordered cleared of other craft during the night.

Buildings Plan Programs

Parents Urged To Visit Schools In Education Week

Parents have been asked to lay aside their duties in the home, the office, the store and the factory may wear costumes and masks if they desire.

At Lincoln School on the North Side, pupils will return for evening classes from 7 to 8:30. One room will give a play, pointing out the antique condition of schools with oil lamps, high silk hats and similar articles from the days when the buildings were erected. Posters will urge parents to vote for the bond issue for new schools.

Assembly for children of the upper grades was held this morning at the McKinley School when Carl A. Werner, Y. M. C. A. secretary, presented the school with the Y membership trophy.

Handwriting Expert Claims Will Forged

Authority Testifies In Pietranton Case At New Cumberland

NEW CUMBERLAND, Oct. 30 (AP)—A handwriting expert, testifying Monday in the will forgery trial of former Hancock County Prosecutor Frank A. Pietranton and a co-defendant, said the document "definitely was forged."

M. A. Nernberg of Allegheny County, Pa., said the signature on the will of the late Edwin O. Spies was forged. He testified in the trial of Pietranton and Mrs. Marjorie Spies in Circuit Court before Judge Decatur H. Rodgers of Martinsburg.

Pietranton and Mrs. Spies are alleged to have forced the signature of Spies to the will. The document involved an estimated estate of $25,000.

Judge Rodgers is presiding over the trial as a special judge after Circuit Judge J. H. Brennan disqualified himself.

Five persons offered testimony in behalf of the prosecution during the session yesterday. Among them was Miss Helen Rita Spies, 16-year-old daughter of the deceased, who said she had contested her father's will in 1950.

At that time, she testified, Mrs. Spies and Pietranton made a settlement with her comparable to what she would have had coming if her father had not left a will.

Cecil Jones, assistant paymaster at the Weirton Steel Co., where Spies was employed, testified as to certain documents that were written and signed by Spies.

Beulah Williamson and Joseph DeFrancisco, former employees of Pietranton, are to testify. Also to take the stand for the prosecution is N. E. George, Brooke County commissioner of accounts.

Plants Hope To Get Price Relief Later

New Appeal To Go To OPS Following Survey On Profits

Semi-vitreous pottery manufacturers will start paying the new 3 per cent wage increase with the first full pay in November.

The decision to go ahead with the payment was made at a conference between officials of the United States Pottery Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

At the meeting, N. B. O. P. spokesmen made an urgent request to proceed with the increase in spite of the fact that higher wage prices to cover the wage boost have not been approved yet by the Office of Price Stabilization.

Manufacturers agreed to make the increase on the first full pay after Oct. 31—tomorrow.

Hope was expressed that price changes to offset the increase will be granted by Dec. 1.

The case has been dragging along before the OPS since late in August, when the U.S.P.A. and N.B.O.P. agreed on the increase at a conference in New York City, subject to OPS approval of higher wage prices.

At that time, one manufacturer said price increases ranging from 2 to 4 per cent would be necessary to cover the higher wages.

A nine-member committee representing the manufacturers went to Washington the middle of this month to seek a hearing on the industry's case.

Results were inconclusive. Instead of using the wage boost as base for its appeal, the industry was instructed to seek relief under the profit reduction clauses of OPS machinery.

A subcommittee now is at work rounding up the industry's profit picture for the periods specified in OPS regulations, and it is this information which will be laid before the government in the new appeal for price relief.

Manufacturers hope to be able to round up the information, and lay it before the OPS in time for appropriate price relief to take effect by Dec. 1.

Ballot Lists Dead Man

Columbiana G.O.P. May Name Alternate

A dead man's name will appear on the Columbiana Village ballot Nov. 6 as a candidate for treasurer unless the community's Republican Central Committee acts to name an alternate aspirant before the deadline Thursday at 6:30 p. m.

The County Election Board explained today that Columbiana ballots carry the name of Charles B. Fuhrman, village treasurer for 20 years, and re-nominated for a new term, who died Friday in a Youngstown hospital. Ballots already had been printed at the time of his death.

Fuhrman was nominated without opposition in the May primaries and Democrats had no candidate, so the treasurer's death left the village with a ticket vacancy, the Election Board explained.

But, in such cases, the law allows the village central committee to name a new candidate within five days before the election. The deadline falls Thursday at 6:30.

If the central committee names a qualified candidate, a meeting of the Election Board will be called to approve it and order a ballot place. Then stickers will be printed, carrying the new candidate's name, to be affixed to the ballots.

The stickers and the ballots will be delivered to polling places together, so that the new candidate's name can be affixed to each ballot handed out at the election. The stickers cannot be attached now because ballots are sealed before they're delivered by the printer, the Election Board pointed out.

The board said it understands Columbiana Republicans expect to name a new choice for the office.

Great Britain Coffers Nearly Empty Again

Churchill May Visit
U.S., Talk On Some Of 'Mutual Burdens'

LONDON, OCT. 30 (UP)—Great Britain is beginning to go broke again and that could be bad news for American taxpayers. The British plight is very simple. They consume more than they produce, spend more than they earn as a nation.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill is not expected to make an outright, public bid for more United States aid. But he is likely to visit Washington before long to talk things over.

Churchill may go during Christmas parliamentary recess.

He might at that time suggest a redistribution of mutual burdens, especially Atlantic defense costs. A deal in that field would end with the United States providing considerably more in the mutual effort.

Live Korean Land Mine In Use As Step Stool

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (AP)—Le Roy Prinz, a movie director who collects firearms as a hobby, is glad he's watched his diet.

Prinz carried a land mine—a Korean war souvenir—into the police station for a check-up. He was afraid it was still alive.

Before he became suspicious of the land mine, however, Prinz used it for various purposes around the house. For a time, it was a step stool.

Police told Prinz he didn't know how lucky he was. The land mine was designed to explode under 200 pounds of pressure.

Prinz weighs 173.

The alternatives to more American aid to Great Britain—direct or indirect—appear to be either reduced British rearmament or reduced British living standards.

Churchill is an armaments man himself. He took the Defense Ministry in addition to the prime minister's office when he formed his new government over the week end.

Whatever Churchill may do about Britain's financial crisis, he wants closer military ties with the U. S.

Churchill opposed breaking up the Anglo-American combined chiefs of staff when the war ended. He will urge now that the chiefs be combined again.

The Socialists left Churchill an expensive cradle-to-grave welfare state, and he has to be for that, too. Any British politician who opposed it would be out of office tomorrow. The Socialists also left Churchill with a sagging national economy and a costly batch of "free" government services.

He expects to reduce somewhat the costs of bureaucracy which soared during six years of Socialist rule. But it will be a miracle if he gets by without asking some kind of indirect aid from the U. S. Washington dispatches since his election suggest that it would be equally miraculous if he got it.

In exchange Churchill would offer closer co-operation with the U. S. in some fields. He would have "joint" Anglo-American policy in place of the less intimate co-operative attitude of the last Socialist government.

It is said that Churchill's government would not withdraw recognition from Communist China although he is a master strategist and few things would ring a louder bell for him in the U. S. than that.

But Churchill would not buck U. S. friendly policies toward Spain as the Socialists bucked them. The old warrior is 100 per cent for Atlantic Pact defense measures, however much he may hope that the U. S. might pick up a larger share of the tab. He probably would like former U. S. commitments to support Britain in the Middle East.

Nurse Steals Milk; Says Drugs Stole Her Patients

LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Even antibiotics have their not-so-sunny side.

State registered nurse Miss Florence Hock, pleaded guilty to stealing a bottle of milk off a London doorstep while unemployed. She has been left without patients since they started using penicillin and aureomycin, she explained, adding:

"Such drugs have reduced the duration of pneumonia and influenza to a matter of days. I had an M.P. (member of parliament) who recovered very quickly. It was excellent for him but not for me."

Deaths and Funerals

Pottery Head Taken At 77

Canton Ceramist's Rites Set Wednesday

Charles W. Foreman, 77, a widely known figure in the ceramic industry for more than 40 years, died Monday morning in his home at Canton. He had been in poor health about five years.

Foreman was president of the Southern Potteries, Inc., of Erwin, Tenn., and treasurer of the United Potteries, a Canton jobbing concern, at the time of his death. He was associated with the Owen Ceramic Co. at Minerva for many years before the organization of Southern Potteries, to erect and operate the plant at Erwin in 1923.

A veteran of the Spanish-American War, Foreman was working as an auditor in Pittsburgh in 1907 when he went to Minerva. He made his home in Canton for many years, dividing his time between his Canton and Erwin interests. He had served on numerous committees on the U.S. Pottery Association.

Foreman was a 32nd Degree Mason and was a member of Tubal Lodge at Minerva, the Stark Consistory of Canton and the Al Koran Shrine of Cleveland. He was affiliated with the Canton Club, the Rotary Club, the Congress Lake Country Club and the First Methodist Church.

His only survivor is his widow, Mrs. Mary Foreman.

Rites will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the late home, 2208 University Ave., NW. Burial will be in Canton.

Friends may call at the home.

LISBON, Oct. 30 (Special) — Pri-vate services for Walter Andrew Southern Potteries, Inc., of Erwin, Tenn., and treasurer of the United Potteries, a Canton jobbing concern, at the time of his death. He was associated with the Owen Ceramic Co. at Minerva for many years before the organization of Southern Potteries, to erect and operate the plant at Erwin in 1923.

A veteran of the Spanish-American War, Foreman was working as an auditor in Pittsburgh in 1907 when he went to Minerva. He made his home in Canton for many years, dividing his time between his Canton and Erwin interests. He had served on numerous committees on the U.S. Pottery Association.

It's A Shakedown!

Bookies Cry New Tax Will Break 'Em

By The United Press

Bookies across the nation moaned today that the new 10 per cent federal tax on handbook bets means "the end of the line, boys—we gotta jump off."

"This looks like a shakedown to me," wailed one New York odds maker. "If you honestly pay the tax they can use your return for evidence in things like the Kefauver hearing. If you don't they can give you 20 years for taking a two dollar bet."

A Boston gambler put it a different way.

"You pay the tax, you get on a list; you get on a list, protection goes up."

The new tax law, effective Nov. 1, slips a flat 10 per cent tax on all bets made with professional gamblers. In addition, all gamblers must obtain a $50 yearly license for themselves and each of their employees.

Many said flatly that they planned to close as of Thursday when the tax goes into effect.

But there were some who said they would try to make a go of it—tax or no tax.

"We got to pass it on to the consumer," a Cleveland bookmaker said.

He said he planned to nick his one little guy said. "I'll bet most customers for the 10 per cent. of us will be out of business in Starting Nov. 1, he said, his $2 a hurry."

"It's the only way we can stay in business," he said. "We can't take care of it and keep going."

For all this, they get a little figure on is about 8 per cent of their volume.

"Besides, that's what they do in every other business, ain't it? They pass along the higher costs to the public."

Operators in Seattle, Wash., and New Orleans, said they would try to pass along the tax—if their customers would stand for it. If not, they would just have to fold, they said.

"We can't possibly afford to assume the tax," a Seattle gambler said.

A New Orleans bookie estimated there were 12 bookmakers in the Gulf city. And only the largest could afford to carry on.

"This can break us little guys," the business."

Council Studies Street Entrance

SALINEVILLE, Oct. 30 (Special) —Village Council took under advisement Monday a project calling for construction of a new street entrance into the Twiss Hill area in the East end.

The only entrance is by short, steep, unpaved Twiss Hill Road off Route 39. The proposed new street would link the area with East Main St.

Mayor Karl Lindner said black-topping of the Twiss Hill Road is impracticable because rain or snow would make it too slippery to negotiate.

Since most of Salineville's streets are blacktopped, and council wants to keep them in good repair, it issued a warning last night against burning leaves on the asphalt thoroughfares.

Councilmen pointed out a village ordinance prohibits burning of any material on the streets.

Beauty Operators To Clip Children Free

She said 22 permanent and 18 haircuts will be given.

CAB Hears Ohioans On Airline Service

Proponents of local air service in Ohio and Indiana argued their case today before the Civil Aeronautics Board at Washington.

Led by the Ohio Aviation Board, and the Aeronautics Commission of Indiana, a number of cities in the two states have objected to recommendations made by CAB examiner R. Vernon Radcliffe last September, following a week-long hearing on applications by several airlines. The board itself will rule later.

The East Liverpool Chamber of Commerce joined in the original protest when its Aviation Committee took part in a meeting at Columbus several weeks ago to prepare the protest heard today.

The city's airport facilities are inadequate at present to handle airliners but the committee said it was interested in case a suitable port ever is provided.

Dayton Siamese Twins Reported Doing Fine

DAYTON, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—Siamese twin boys, born Sunday to Mrs. Wesley Galyon, 25, are doing fine in an incubator at St. Ann's Maternity Hospital. The hospital disclosed their birth yesterday.

Joined at the abdomen, they weighed 11 pounds, 11½ ounces at birth. Doctors said they have not decided if they can be separated by an operation.

"We were expecting twins and were hoping for them," said the 27-year-old father, "but this came as a terrific blow to us."

The Galyons have two other children, a boy 1, and a girl, 2.

How To Get Votes

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — Mrs. Fortune smiled on the political stock of Saul Silbergleit, candidate for mayor, when he found her pocketbook on the sidewalk. The Raise Is What's Left

Local potters are going to get better acquainted with their Uncle Samuel when they draw, sometime in November, the first checks carrying their new 3 per cent wage increase. It is a small quirk of irony that the increase coincides with the imposition, starting Nov. 1, of the higher deductions for income taxes recently voted by Congress.

A raise, under this spend-every-cent-in-sight administration, is not a certain figure, any more. It's what's left after Uncle Sugar gets his. And his fingers are getting longer all the time.

Mr. Truman says everyone is doing fine—better than ever, in fact. Well, it's a cinch the government is. Washington never had it so good. When you can get rid of 70 billion of other people's dollars a year, things are really humming.

Tables Switched

Extracting whatever grim comfort we can from the Korean war, it is worth noting that now that the Communists have returned to the negotiating table, they face a United Nations demand for a buffer line farther north than the demand made by the Allies when the talks were broken off two months ago.

Thus, by their usual disruptive tactics, the Communists actually have lost ground in Korea. This is a switch on the result to which the United States is accustomed. Russian obstreperousness around the world has gained considerable territory for the Kremlin in recent years.

There appears to be no reason to doubt the promises of American military commanders that they have strengthened their positions in Korea while the enemy harangued over neutrality violations and alleged violations.

Furthermore, Allied fears of a Chinese buildup and offensive during the interruption of the truce negotiations have not materialized. Let us hope this has brought as much unhappiness to the Politburo as it has brought relief to Washington and the other free capitals.

The long breach in the armistice parley wore the patience of American and United Nations officials very thin. During the interim the United Nations added considerable strength in Korea. The Communists might well ponder the intimation from Allied military sources that, if the latest series of negotiations breaks down because of Communist stalling, the U.N. is prepared to greatly intensify and extend its military operations.

Sinews Of Empire

It long has been plain to Britons who see behind the pomp and ceremony of their government that the thing most to be feared is the collapse of the sterling bloc.

That much-dreaded eventuality has come a step closer with Australia's debate over whether or not the time has come for that member of the British Commonwealth to link its currency to United States dollars.

If this were to happen, it would make the outcome of the British election unimportant. It would highlight a fact known to all British politicians—that it has become their grubby destiny to preside over the liquidation of an empire in bankruptcy. They would be truly an assignment to administer the fair sharing of Britain's poverty, a grim destiny which the Labor party rushed more than halfway to meet in 1945.

Britain's great problem is financial, not ideological. The people's preoccupation with the latter is little more than a diversion to keep their minds off the decay of those sinews of empire which formerly made the British pound the world's soundest standard of value.

Isolationism For Others

Political analysts who have been sounding out opinion in the by-ways are running into a great deal of talk which might be called "isolationism."

The analysts are guessing that the state of mind reflected by this talk will be a potent factor in the 1952 election. They are guessing that the interventionist East and the internationalist West had better take stock of the non-interventionist and non-internationalist middle country.

Whether this is going to be a fresh outbreak of what is spoken of disparagingly as "isolationism" remains to be seen. These things change in relation to experience, and no one is able to deny that Americans have been having a great deal of experience in the field of foreign relations.

Out of that experience they are forming some conclusions they never could have formed previously. For example, many Americans now are beginning to see that isolationism for other countries, such as the Soviet Union, might be a blessing. It would rid the world of its fear of being taken over by agents of the Communist conspiracy. Governments fearful of being gobbled up by Russia could quit worrying about their sovereignty. Whatever may be wrong with isolationism for Americans, it at least can be highly recommended for the interventionists of the Kremlin.

Within certain limits, the higher or longer the radio station antenna, the higher the efficiency.

Behind The News

By George Sokolsky

Eisenhower Should Declare Himself

The campaign to make General Eisenhower a presidential nominee for one of the two major political parties is now in full blast. Almost simultaneously, the New York Herald Tribune named him as its candidate. Collier's published an article by Leonard V. Funder announcing that Eisenhower would accept a nomination by either party, and a news story stated that a headquarters for him would be established at Topeka, Kans.

Even Eisenhower's most ardent supporters have to recognize that politically this is not good enough, for no direct word has come from Eisenhower. In fact, his headquarters stated:

"This is a military headquarters and we cannot be expected to comment on the views of an editorial in a purely political matter. There is no change contemplated in General Eisenhower's military status, about which this headquarters has been informed."

Admittedly, the position of Eisenhower is difficult and embarrassing. As supreme commander of NATO, he cannot become involved in the internal politics of his own country. While serving in uniform under President Truman, he cannot oppose him politically.

All this, Eisenhower was told by friendly persons before he went to Europe. He was told that such a complex situation was inevitable and that he ought to make his choice in advance of the campaign for his nomination. Others counseled him that his position in Europe would improve his political stature.

UNTIL Eisenhower himself publicly proclaims himself a Republican, which he has never done, and that he seeks the nomination and would accept it, the politicians who control state delegations to the convention will avoid, as far as possible, commitments which may prove embarrassing to them at the convention.

Eisenhower, furthermore, is being presented in a false light by those who are publicly supporting him. The New York Herald Tribune was one of the principal advocates of Wendell Willkie, which is likely to frighten Middle-Western Republicans.

Funder has no status in the Republican party. His claim to fame is that in 1948, Eisenhower wrote to him stating that "it is my conviction that the necessary and wise subordination of the military to civil power will be best sustained, and our people will have greater confidence that it is so sustained, when lifelong professional soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overriding reason, abstain from seeking high political office."

Nowhere in his article does Funder publish a statement prepared by or signed by Eisenhower acknowledging that he is a candidate and will accept if chosen. All that appears is Funder's political judgment. But there is no record to indicate that Funder's political judgment is politically important.

The real danger for the Eisenhower candidacy is that his friends are placing him in the awkward position of being Tom Dewey's candidate supported by the internationalist crowd in the East. To professional politicians this means a split party for the following reasons:

1.—It is based not on a desire to support Eisenhower but to use him to block Taft and to bring Dewey in as a compromise;

2.—He is being used as a political refuge by a discredited crowd who have kept Republicans at loggerheads and defeated since 1940 when they projected Wendell Willkie. This same group is regarded as responsible for the agreement between Roosevelt and Dewey to limit the debate in 1944;

3.—It is perilous to say, as Eisenhower's friends do, that if the Republicans do not nominate him, he would accept a Democratic nomination. This is an admission that he is not a Republican but a maverick who will accept any brand. Furthermore, it implies that he is above party and therefore will not function as a Republican if elected.

ALL of this adds up to three points:

1.—Eisenhower must declare himself a Republican;

2.—He must declare himself a candidate who will accept the nomination, come what may. No man can lead a party who in his mind or occupation is greater than his party;

3.—He must state his platform—his domestic and foreign platform—before the convention, as no party can afford this year to buy a pig in a poke.

A political party in the United States is a state organization which selects delegates to a national convention. To many leaders, the state and congressional elections are of equal importance to the presidential election. They will not risk the former for an uncertainty in the latter if they can help it.

That is why the Eisenhower candidacy evokes little enthusiasm among those who will select the delegates to Chicago.

Inside On Labor

By Victor Riesel

British labor's leaders can throw their weight around politically because they get millions of pounds from 80 unions which raise their election war chests by adding a Labor Party tax to the regular dues of their 4,900,000 members.

This gives the Laborites as much money as the Conservatives—and in many big cities, considerably more. It isn't generally known in the U.S. but the Labor Party, in effect, thus takes its funds right out of the workers' wages each month in addition to special assessments.

Furthermore, the union chiefs themselves are the biggest bloc of candidates named by the British Labor Party. Last Thursday, there were 140 union officials "standing" out of the 600 Laborite nominees.

From the Miners' Union came 37 such parliamentary candidates, the equivalent, in this country, of John L. Lewis and 36 of his lieutenants running for Congress in their coal districts. This is what gives the unions almost complete power over the British Labor Party, and over the government when Labor rules.

FOR months now, I've been reporting that there is powerful Republican sentiment inside the nine-million-member A.F.L. Each time I've written this I've been taken aside by many a friend in the A.F.L. and told it just couldn't be. Then, at the A.F.L. convention in San Francisco, Joe Keenan, the genial ex-political chief of the federation, took the platform to warn delegates that they should not listen to certain of their colleagues who were quietly passing this information on to newspaper commentators.

Now, we have it quite bluntly. One of the most powerful sections of the A.F.L.—the men who erect the nation's buildings—has publicly assailed the Truman administration. This was done in its latest monthly bulletin which said that there was a "very meritorious point" to voting for the Republican candidate for president next year.

Who is secretary of three-million-member A.F.L. Building Trades Department? Joe Keenan! And with whom have the other building trades' unions' chiefs been consulting recently? Senator Taft! Now watch for the equally strong, million-member Teamsters' Union to make some similar move.

There's no doubt now that President Truman will have to count most heavily on the energetic C.I.O. for his all-out labor support. And if General Eisenhower is nominated, that will be split, too. But the President is depending heavily on his enormously popular Secretary of Labor Tobin to mend his political lines inside Labor again.

ATOMIC Energy Commission officials are firing Ku Klux Klan members as well as Communies wherever found at the Savannah River H-bomb installations. Both are on the attorney general's subversive list.

At least one company is taking no chances on being left among skeletal buildings in the event of an A-bomb attack. That's the Esso Company, which has just picked up a 50-acre area in New Jersey 35 miles from New York. Formerly an Episcopal convent, it has four buildings which, like 12 more centers to come, will be renovated, put in charge of a caretaker, equipped with microfilm duplicate records—and held for emergency use.

Millions of salesmen who live on commissions will be affected by a special report now on the desk of wage boss Eric Johnston who'll decide at just what point this kind of income will be frozen for the duration. Meanwhile, his staff is screaming for more than the million dollars allotted to it to inspect and police the business world in an effort to enforce all his decisions on frozen commissions and salaries (as differentiated from factory wages). Johnston, meanwhile, has set Nov. 15 as his deadline for holding public office.

So desperate is unemployment in Detroit that Truman has ordered all Defense Department and other federal purchasing chiefs to make monthly reports on just what they're doing to relieve the hardships of Walter Reuther's Auto Union followers who are watching the big auto plants slow down to a walk.

THE Defense Department has slowly begun to inch towards a five million man army. It will move by the hundred thousand bloc. Now the goal is 3,600,000 and it will continue to be raised until the four million mark is reached, sometime next year. Then Congress will be asked for another million men.

When Harry Bridges called a press conference, in the penthouse of a local hotel no less, he was supervised and prompted there by the pro-Commies' newest labor commissar, John Steuben. They ordered their own trusted photographer to snap pictures of every newsmen around the press table, knowing full well that the intelligence services would be monitoring his interview—and that some of the men would come as "reporters."

The party-line apparatus is now building up its own counter-security picture file so it can spot agents tailing its people.

The notorious Batory-Gerhart Eisler's escape ship—now running between Gdynia and India, is called a "floating hell of fear" by its crew. To prevent the seamen from deserting in non-Soviet controlled ports, the Russians have put them under a special secret police agent called "Szeziel". He has power to execute dissidents.

Born For Each Other!

Shifting Tides In The British Isles

By David Lawrence

Any election which changes the man at the helm of the British government is bound to affect relations with the United States.

While some politicians on the Republican side here profess to see a trend away from socialism, and the Democrats believe that the program of reforms adopted by the Labor government will not be essentially changed, the fact is that American conservatives—whether they be Democrats or Republicans—will take heart from what has happened in England.

Curiously enough, Stalin will derive considerable encouragement, too. For the "left wing" in the Labor government, which wants America to reduce her armament and appease the Communists in China and Korea, has come back with a strong vote at the polls.

As Stalin looks around the world, he sees a Conservative government in the "left wing" strength in Britain is such that, if the Conservative government falls, the next prime minister will not be the moderate Attlee, but the extreme radical and socialist—Aneurin Bevan.

WINSTON CHURCHILL will doubtless plead here for support on an economic and financial basis, using the argument that unless his government is helped to grow stronger with the people, Britain will go further and further toward the "left."

The British government is, indeed in need of help because her economic situation is not as rosy as it has been painted. The disasters in Iran and Egypt will not diminish the external expenses of Great Britain, but will increase them materially.

All in all, the British electorate is torn into three parts—the Conservatives under Churchill, the moderates or middle-of-the-roads among the Laborites under Attlee, and the radicals under Bevan. The contest for supremacy has by no means been settled by the election. It may be, as happened in the early '30's when Ramsay MacDonald, as prime minister, left the Labor party to join in a coalition government, and again during the war when Attlee came into the Churchill cabinet, the majority of the British people will insist on a coalition government to see Britain through the present world crisis.

Plainly the Conservative strength, plus a substantial section of the Labor party, would give a coalition government an overwhelming majority. It is on foreign or external issues that such a coalition would be forced because on domestic issues some of the major differences are all but irreconcilable.

It could be, however, that Churchill, who is a master of compromises, will woo to his side more and more of the moderate Laborites even on domestic questions. But if he doesn't choose to follow that strategy, he will be compelled to crystallize the issues for another test of power a year hence in the hope that Conservative strength with the people will have been enhanced by a year of Churchill's rule.

IT NOW IS EXPECTED that Great Britain and America will work more closely than ever before. Former Prime Minister Attlee in his decisions has been constantly under the necessity of keeping an expedient eye on his "left wing", and hence he has been growing weaker and weaker in dealing with America.

"The left wing" has been anti-American. Churchill, with a solid Conservative majority behind him, will have no such handicap, and will not appease the "left wing", confining his compromises toward the moderate Laborites.

Concretely, a settlement of both the Iranian and the Egyptian problems will be sought by Churchill. The skill of the Conservatives as negotiators will be tested to the utmost. But a steady hand in the British Foreign Office, guided by the resourceful Churchill, may be looked for to cement relations between the United States and Britain in whatever joint policies may be evolved for the Middle East. Britain, in a broad sense, gains on external policy by switching to Churchill now.

What the future may be in the way of a strengthened or weakened British economy is not so readily appraised, and the danger of economic deterioration—as hoped for by Stalin—has not been removed by the entry of Churchill, because he takes over an already badly disintegrated economic system.

Here To Stay

By Truman Twill

An argument any of us can get into at the drop of a voice, because for once the common, ordinary citizen knows what he is talking about, is the future of moving pictures. It is in the ordinary citizen's hands. He alone knows what he is going to do about it.

Here is an opinion that the future is bright and that the movies, now celebrating half a century of operation, finally have their feet on the ground. Things won't be the same in the next 50 years as they were in the last 50, but that is not a condition limited to the movies.

When the movies began to pull mortals through the portals at a price a poor man could pay for breathless glimpses of never-never land, the movies used to claim they had killed vaudeville and also the legitimate theater.

When radio picked up momentum, its hopped-up enthusiasts used to think they had killed the movies, just as today the television enthusiasts are sure they have killed everything there is—the legitimate theater, books, magazines, newspapers, radio, and of course, the movies. In the meantime, they have revived vaudeville, just to show how risky it is to hold post-mortems.

The catch is that these things take a lot of dying. They never receive the mortal blow they are supposed to receive, because in fact the mortal blow never is delivered. That is a fallacy in human reasoning—that the newest thing must kill the latest previous thing in the same category.

What happens is that the newest thing merely is added to all the previous things in the same category. The bicycle came after the horse, which came after the ox. The automobile came after all of them and was followed in turn by the airplane. But we still have horses, bicycles and automobiles. And in places where leisure can be afforded we still have the ox.

In the field of entertainment, diversion, or whatever you call it, people are still going to plays, and prospects for the theater remain bright. People are still reading books. They are still listening to radio. They are having fun with television, the latest addition, but that does not mean it is going to exclude anything.

It does not even mean the demand for anything is going to be curtailed so sharply that the people providing that particular thing will be starved out. Human beings have an incredible capacity for absorbing entertainment just as they have an incredible capacity for eating. The more they have the more they want, which is a grossly neglected axiom among showmen.

Once Over

Has your bookie a license? Is the football pool agent registered? Is the operator of the floating crap game, the sweepstakes lottery or the numbers racket displaying his license plates front and rear?

Cockeyed as they may seem, these questions will presently be logical. Under the new tax law, all persons engaged in gambling as an occupation are required to register, pay a fee to operate, and pay the government 10 per cent. Since such business is illegal in most states, this calls on bookies and their agents and runners to make complete reports on operations for which they can be arrested!

The bookie, lottery and pool rackets generally are condemned as running countless homes and depriving baby of shoes, but Uncle Sam has stepped in to take his "cut".

THERE IS CERTAINLY no justice in making those of us in legal businesses pay through the nose while the boys behind the gambling racetracks enjoy immunity, and we shed no tears for them. But the morals established, if any, are highly screwball. It is as if Uncle Sam handled an arson case by simply demanding a percentage from the fire sale. The Internal Revenue Department is asking $400,000 for the job of making the gamblers toe the mark. (It will need that much for headache powders, foot ointments, searchlights and maps of dark alleys.)

"They're gonna make bookies and all their runners register!" exclaimed Shudda Haddim today. "This will bring a new high in aliases. That's assuming some of 'em can write. It will never work. Most of the runners I know think Tax Burden, Fair Play and Equal Justice are a three-horse parlay. They haven't given their right names and addresses to anybody in years. They won't even register in hotels, let alone tax bureaus. A lot of 'em slip out of two-dollar show bets, so you can get a fair idea how they will react to a $407,000,000 tax bill which Washington estimates as the total take."

WE TALKED with a runner today. He has heard of the law to make him register and pay a license fee, but didn't quite believe it. "Ya mean they want me to register with my right name and address and take out a license to be in a business for which the nearest bull can throw me into the bastille?" he demanded. "Then what Mister Whiskers is saying to me is 'You are a louse and a hum but I am glad to do business with you on a ten per cent basis.'"

That was so, we agreed. The law is the law, we explained.

"Regardless of track conditions and the weights?" asked the runner.

"Certainly," we replied.

"Suppose a cop grabs me taking a show bet in a delicatessen store and I pull my federal license or registration card on him?" he asked. "If he takes me in won't he be defrauding Uncle Sam of my income taxes?"

He had us there.

That was good news Mrs. Rosenberg brought to the fellows in Korea. They'll all be home soon and their brothers will be there.

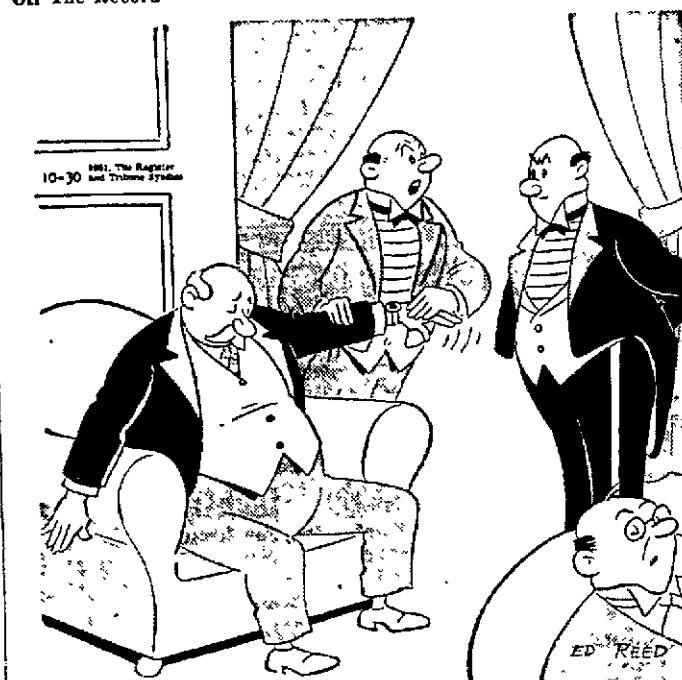

We have several good plans for troop rotation, but none for victory.

Remember the boy who saved Holland by plugging the leak in the dike with his thumb until it could be fixed? Our planners have rounded up 300,000 more boys with thumbs instead of fixing the leak.

Now they have worked out a rotation system as other boys grow to man-thumb size.

Eventually every man with a thumb will have served and the leak still will be there.

Council To Act On Water Plan Friday Night

Engineering Concern Advises Mayor That Program's Practical

City Council probably will meet in special session Friday night to act on preliminary plans for a $150,000 project to improve water service for outlying residential areas.

The Chester Engineering Co. of Pittsburgh advised Mayor Arnold W. Deven and other administration leaders Monday that the program council approved tentatively in a special session Oct. 22 is practical from an engineering standpoint and will boost the water volume in low-pressure areas.

The job is designed to furnish better service to Pleasant Heights, West End and the Maplewood-Park Blvd. district of outer St. Clair Ave.

Council decided to proceed with the job—part of a long range program recommended by the Pittsburgh concern two years ago—if the engineering firm decided it was practical.

J. L. Davis, a representative of the engineering firm, assured administration leaders yesterday that the project will fill the city's needs.

He met with Mayor Deven, Safety-Service Director Lawrence S. Bloor, Water Office Clerk Frank K. Robinson and Harold Peterson, distribution foreman.

Davis promised to draft a letter with his findings and an estimate of the cost in time for presentation to council at a meeting Friday, the director said.

In addition to new mains, the program calls for a new pump at the Water Plant to boost the flow to the high service reservoir area and a larger capacity pump at the Beechwood booster station.

French Aid Murdered In Indo-China State

PARIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—France announced today that her commissioner in the Indo-China state of Cambodia, Jean Leon Francois Marie de Raymond, has been stabbed to death by an assassin.

A terse announcement from the ministry of associated states said De Raymond's body was found yesterday at his home in Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital. No other details were given.

De Raymond was one of three commissioners appointed to handle French affairs in Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam, the three newly-created autonomous states of Indo-China.

U.S. Has Best Orchestras, Conductor Declares Abroad

VIENNA (UP)—The best orchestras are in the United States, according to H. Arthur Brown, conductor of the Tulsa (Okla.) Philharmonic.

Brown, here recently to make recordings with the Austrian Tone Cunstler Orchestra, said Americans are more music conscious than Europeans and music criticism in the United States is of such a high standard that the gap will continue to widen.

The musician, who formerly directed the El Paso Symphony as well as his Tulsa orchestra, rated the world's orchestras, with the New York Philharmonic first, followed by the Boston, Philadelphia and National Broadcasting Co. symphonies in any order you prefer.

Below them you find the London, Amsterdam and Vienna orchestras, and any number of American ones, Brown added. The Houston Symphony probably is as good as any in Europe, he said.

There probably isn't a single first-rate orchestra in all France, Brown declared. He was especially critical of the European system of state subsidy for symphonies and operas. The people here do not have the sense of participation in music that Americans have, he said, and consequently they don't make as critical audiences as the Americans.

To operate an orchestra in the United States, almost everyone must contribute. Consequently they want to get their money's worth, and their criticism keeps the musicians and conductors on their toes.

Brown said he made records in Europe only because smaller companies in the United States could not afford to pay U.S. music union stand-by charges.

Comparing availability of fine music in the United States and in Europe, Brown said there were more than 2,000 American towns which have concert seasons and 1,600 which schedule classical music programs.

Some of these are just pick-up orchestras, he said, but they bring the classics to the people.

In Europe there are good orchestras in the big cities and no other place, he said. Consequently, those who cannot afford to travel just don't get a chance to listen.

Blonde Talks Veteran Out Of Leap From Hotel

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30 (AP)—A pretty blonde took over where a preacher, a psychology student and police failed last night and talked a young former soldier into leaving his perch on the roof of a 19-story hotel.

While hundreds of excited spectators watched from the streets below, 19-year-old Louis Francis Turini showed every intention of carrying out a threat to jump. Turini, out of service three months and unemployed, said he was from Boston.

After brushing off the come-down advice of others, Turini saw the blonde hair of Mrs. Connie Fry of St. Louis in the crowd below. He asked to talk with her.

It wasn't long until he was on his way down, surrendering to the police who took him to headquarters for questioning.

His motive wasn't disclosed immediately and Mrs. Fry wouldn't tell about her conversation with him.

Tone Lands In Jail For Rift With Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 30 (AP)—Francis Tone, the movie actor, went to jail today accused of spitting in the face of a veteran movie columnist, red-haired Florabel Muir.

The booking was suspicion of battery, on a citizen's arrest signed by the newspaper and magazine writer. The incident occurred at Ciro's night club.

Miss Muir told police the actor, new husband of Actress Barbara Payton, came to her table, muttered something uncomplimentary, then said:

"Florabel, I'm so mad I could spit in your face. As a matter of fact, I will."

He did. The columnist said she slapped him and he kicked her in the shins. She summoned sheriff's deputies, who took him into custody.

Pietrantoni and Mrs. Spies also are under indictment in neighboring Brooke County on charges of filing a fraudulent will and he was convicted of using $2,833.33 obtained for a client in a damage action. He is under a 15-year prison sentence for that offense. A 90-day stay of judgment has been granted to permit an appeal to the West Virginia Supreme Court.

Pietrantoni was removed from office after the charges against him arose. The prosecutor now handling the state's case, William Calahan, was named to succeed him.

W. W. Ingram of Chester is representing Pietrantoni, while Mrs. Spies has as her attorney George S. Loucas of Wheeling.

The layoffs are attributed to model changeovers and government production quotas.

Some Things Just Can't Be Insured

Certainly insurance is your best protection against financial loss due to fire. The income a loved one provides can be supplanted to a degree. A home razed can be rebuilt. But a loved one's companionship, old home's familiarity, can never be replaced. Only care and attention can stop losses such as these.

American Plan Spurs Hope Of Iran Oil Peace

Mossadegh Stays On For Talks; Bid Made To Move Fuel Now

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Reaction to a two-step American plan appears to have buoyed State Department hopes that Iran and Great Britain may reach a settlement unhooking the flow of Iranian oil to the West.

Premier Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran is sufficiently interested in American suggestions to prolong his stay in the capital for further talks on the problem.

He originally was to have flown home last week end, but is still here, with no departure date fixed. Responsible informants say American mediators are trying not only to persuade Iran and Britain to resume direct talks but to agree on a stop-gap plan for moving available refined oil to the West.

The twofold approach reportedly is based on an American belief that weeks, perhaps months, of detailed talks may be necessary before the British and Iranians agree on a permanent settlement and put it into effect, even after they resume face-to-face conferences.

Nasrallah Entezam, Iranian who is president of the United Nations General Assembly, told newsmen in New York he anticipates a settlement outside the UN.

Meanwhile, the State Department believes some temporary arrangement to move 40 million dollars worth of Iranian oil products now stored in huge tanks near the Abadan refinery should be worked out.

Under the reported plan, the refined products would be sold, with receipts from sales to tankers going to Iran. Who would get the products and collect distribution profits was not reported.

About two million tons of refined oil, ranging from high-grade aviation fuel to diesel oil and kerosene, is involved.

The State Department has thrown a light curtain of secrecy around the talks between the ailing Mossadegh and American negotiators, led by Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee, a former oil man.

McGhee is reported fairly optimistic at the chances of persuading Mossadegh and the British to agree on a blueprint which will guide future direct talks between them.

His plan for emergency release of refined oil, officials said, was made as part of suggestions for such a negotiation blueprint.

Even An Envoy To The Vatican

Teddy Roosevelt Faced Today's Issues

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 30 (AP)—In American life, he wrote a factor of vital importance, he was the spirit of the bank, the broker, the mere manufacturer, the mere merchant.

And although mostly concerned with problems within his own country, Roosevelt was a strong friend of Britain and revealed himself as saddened by the thought that "England is on the downgrade."

He commented: "It seems to me that no other European power can send William Howard Taft—then in the long run contest with Russia civil governor of the Philippines—in the control and destiny of the problems involving Catholic friars Asia."

But, he said: "I do not think they can ever take the place they should take until they gain a measure of civil liberty and self-government."

Roosevelt commented his surprise arose from "the violent attack made upon us by the Catholic Church."

He wrote that he had the approval of Archbishop John Ireland and Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore. He wrote that "anti-Ireland Catholics" strenuously insisted "that it was an outrage for the United States to depart from its traditional policy and try to open negotiations with the Vatican."

A "large number," he said, "seem to feel" that the mission was "in some way a movement against the Catholic Church by the government in Washington."

Roosevelt saw "in a society that rested upon industry the constant danger of barbarism," Morison commented. "Unhappily prominent

He set about trying to achieve what he "took to be the right kind of civilization," Morison declared.

But above all, in the opinion of Historian E. E. Morison of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who edited the letters, Roosevelt sought to resolve the conflict between culture and barbarism in an industrial society.

He set about trying to achieve what he "took to be the right kind of civilization," Morison declared.

'Very Drunk' Sailor

Blamed For Bus Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 (AP)—A "very drunk" sailor has been blamed for the Greyhound bus tragedy which killed seven persons and injured 22 just before dawn Sunday.

Wayne Petty, chief traffic investigator for the Oakland Police Department, said laboratory tests showed that Navy Boatswain Mate, Orville C. Russell Jr. was in a highly alcoholic state when his car smashed a concrete abutment on a ramp of the San Francisco Bay bridge.

That crash hurled a huge concrete block onto the path of the bus, causing it to blow a tire, career through the guard rails and plunge 40 feet to the ground.

Police said Russell will be prosecuted for drunken driving if he recovers. The sailor is in serious condition. His car rolled on top of him when it bounced off the abutment.

Hillcrest Apple Harvest May Total 110,000 Bushels

Hillcrest Farms, noted for its purebred Hereford cattle but which also has one of the largest apple orchards in the tri-state area, will wind up picking this week.

This year's yield is expected to be about 110,000 bushels, an increase of 5 or 6 per cent over the 1950 harvest.

Pickers started work about Sept. 1 in the 500-acre orchard with as high as 70 picking at one time. Most of the hands come from Weirton with a few from East Liverpool.

Eight carloads—about 5,000 bushels—were loaded this week for the Department of Agriculture to use in the school lunch program. The remainder will be sold mostly to chain organizations.

The farms' cold storage warehouse can hold about 70,000 bushels. The yield comes from nearly 19,000 trees with 500 more young trees to be planted when picking ends.

Argentina Claims Atomic Advances

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 30 (AP)—Argentina says she successfully has completed "big-scale trials" at an isolated atomic energy plant and is nearing the development stage of an atomic reactor for industrial use.

A government communique from Dr. Ronald Richter, Austrian-born physicist in charge of Argentine atomic research, added that technical installations at Huemul Island in Nahuel Huapi Lake, a 10,000-foot-high spot in the Andes 750 miles southwest of Buenos Aires, will be made available "with logical limitations" to Argentine and foreign scientists and technicians within a short time.

The official statement, issued by President Juan D. Peron's office last night, did not say Richter's experiments had achieved an atomic explosion.

Neither did it give any technical details about the "big-scale trials" which it said were held last Friday. Neither official nor scientific sources offered immediate elaboration of the brief announcement.

To prevent white streaks and spots on crisped black and navy cottons, add a few drops of coffee to the starch solution.

Wife Asks Return Of Bataan Victim Fighting In Korea

SEATTLE, Oct. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Eugene Corder says her husband, a survivor of the Bataan death march, is in Korea by mistake and she wants him back.

In a letter to the Post-Intelligencer yesterday, Mrs. Corder said: "I knew it would happen. He isn't in condition for Army life any more, and never will be. He took too much while in the service before."

She said her husband, Corporal Eugene Sturant Corder, 31, weighed only 80 pounds when freed after three and a half years as a prisoner of war of the Japanese.

"He was wounded and had received the Purple Heart medal before being taken prisoner," she wrote. "When he was discharged in 1946, he was given 60 per cent disability."

He stayed in the reserves and was called into active service last November.

Mrs. Corder continued: "He was ordered overseas last February, but was hospitalized because of old wounds."

After several months hospitalization, he suddenly was ordered overseas and 10 days later was on his way to Korea. His letters indicate he has seen front-line duty.

"My husband and I have both protested to every official possible. All we ever get for an answer is that 'There must have been some mistake.'"

Pope Hits Birth Control, 'Rhythm' Plan

Says Abuse Of Period Of 'Sterility' Could Invalidate Marriage

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 30.—Pope Pius today repeated the Roman Catholic Church's opposition to birth control and sterilization, and cautioned against habitual resort to the rhythm theory in marital relations to avoid conception.

Pius XII made a 10,000 word address to the National Congress of Italian Obstetricians. Vatican sources said it was "very important" to Catholics throughout the world.

The pontiff also touched upon artificial insemination and abortion but directed a major portion of his discourse against the "cult of pleasure" and to the "constantly more diffused recourse to times of natural sterility—the so-called periods of non-fertility in the woman."

"This has in the past frequently been referred to as the rhythm theory," he said.

Married persons, he advised, can make use of their matrimonial rights in the days of natural sterility, but if one "goes beyond that, permitting, that is, the conjugal act exclusively in those days, then the conduct of the spouses must be examined more attentively."

He further explained: "If in contracting marriage one of the spouses had the intention of restricting to sterile periods the matrimonial right, that would invalidate the marriage itself, because the right deriving from the matrimonial contract is a permanent, uninterrupted and not intermittent right. But, if instead the limitation of the act to the days of natural sterility refers not to the right itself but only to the use of the right, the validity of the marriage remains beyond discussion."

Marriage, he said, confers upon "spouses the right to satisfy their inclinations of nature," and "nature and the creator impose the function of providing for the conservation of human kind" upon those who make use of the right.

"Therefore," he continued, "to embrace the matrimonial state, to use continuously the faculty proper to it and only in it permitted, and, upon the other hand, without a grave motive, deliberately always to withdraw from its primary duty would be to sin against the sense itself of conjugal life. The wish to avoid habitually the fecundity of their union while continuing to satisfy fully their sensuality can only derive from a false evaluation of life."

The pope said the obstetrician's work was an "apostolate," or mission, "to gain married people to the service of maternity, not in the sense of blind slavery under nature's impulse, but the exercise of conjugal rights and duties regulated by the principles of reason and faith."

He urged them to base their instructions to married couples upon authoritative judgment and publications and avoid "simple popular publications." Generally, he said, "good sense, natural instinct and a brief instruction upon the clear and simple principles of Christian

Husband Killed, Daughter Saved

Mother Trapped In Plane Watches Her Son Die

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., Oct. 30 (AP)—A mother, trapped upside down for 20 hours in a wrecked plane with her dead husband, told last night of watching her son die as help approached.

The mother, Mrs. Maye Mortensen, 33, and her daughter, Kathleen, 5, were pulled alive, but seriously injured from the jammed-up wreckage.

Her husband, Richard G. Mortensen, 33, was killed outright in the crash and the son, Russell, 8, died many hours later. Officials said they believe the boy suffered a skull fracture.

The Seattle family crashed Sunday night on a wooded ridge near here while returning in their private plane from a visit to Bellingham, 80 miles to the north. They were not located until yesterday afternoon.

"I knew Dick was dead," Mrs. Mortensen said from a hospital bed, "but Rusty lived for a long time as we lay there. I believe he died just a little while before the rescuers came. Perhaps if they had come sooner he would have lived."

Little Kathy's first words as she was taken from the plane wreckage were: "If I could just sit down." She was trapped the entire time in a bent-over standing position.

moral law are sufficient."

He urged them to banish literature on the "technique of love" which undertakes to "describe in every particular the intimacy of married life under the pretense of instructing, directing and reassuring."

He opposed books and articles which teach that "happiness in marriage is in direct proportion to reciprocal pleasure in conjugal relations" and tend to treat the procreation of new life as of secondary importance.

"No," he exclaimed, "happiness in marriage, instead, is in direct proportion to the mutual respect between a married couple, even in their intimate relations."

Solicitor Asks Write-In Term

Palestine Incumbent Announces He'll Run

EAST PALESTINE, Oct. 30 (Special)—City Solicitor Robert S. Hartford, who refused to run in the primary, today announced his candidacy for re-election at next Tuesday's balloting.

A Democrat, he'll serve as an independent write-in candidate. Hartford repeatedly refused to serve again, claiming the $650 annual salary was too low. Council Oct. 15 gave final approval to legislation which raised the yearly pay to $1,500.

Since he did not file in the primary, and did not announce his plans to run before the Aug. 8 filing deadline, the solicitor can seek the job only as an independent write-in.

Currently serving his first full term, to which he was elected in 1950, Hartford originally was appointed to the post in mid-1949 by former Mayor Walter Hunston, succeeding the late E. L. Lyon, who resigned.

Hartford needs secure only a majority of votes cast for the office of city solicitor to win.

Top Priority Sought For UMT Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Senator Johnson (D) of Texas said today he will urge that universal training legislation be given top priority when Congress returns next year.

The new national security training commission urged Sunday that UMT be started as soon as possible.

The commission was established by Congress when it passed, at the session just ended, legislation approving the general idea of UMT. The commission was set up to plan UMT.

Under the law, the Senate and House armed services committees must go right to work on the commission's plan after the new session begins.

UMT cannot go into effect until Congress approves a detailed plan. Several lawmakers have predicted a hot fight over the enabling legislation.

Old Grant . . . A.D. 1886

1886 GOODBY HORSECARS!

SIXTY-FIVE YEARS ago . . . that was the beginning of the Invention Era. Waterman had just come out with the first fountain pen. An Austrian gave us the Welsbach Gas Mantel, a gadget to provide whiter, brighter gas light.

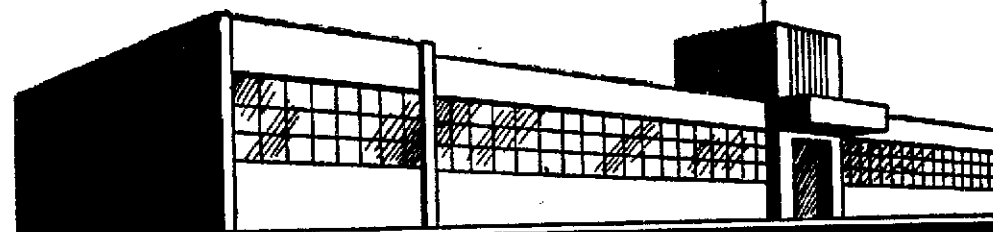

1886 was about the time the horse-car went out and the Electric Trolley opened a new mode of city travel. Even Express Service began to streamline. All this was months before France's gift to Uncle Sam was unveiled on Bedloe's Island . . . the Statue of Liberty. That 151 foot figure had been done by Sculptor Bartholdi at a cost of a quarter million dollars.

1886, and at far less cost, East Liverpool unveiled its latest and finest school building . . . GRANT STREET. It was a colossal piece of architecture . . . sturdy, clean, sanitary, the latest in everything. Unfortunately, time and usage have taken their toll on OLD GRANT. It is worn out . . . lacks the safe and sanitary features which, in fairness, are due our children. Like a heavily-miled automobile, OLD GRANT cannot be salvaged . . . is beyond repair.

In 1886, parents sacrificed much in the way of taxes to give Decent Schools to the Youth of East Liverpool. Can we afford to do less Now?

Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

A Stand On The Man-Eating Shark

There is nothing like a code of ethics for broadcasting to make everyone's conscience feel better. Baring this in mind, the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters met in Chicago and endorsed another code which, as an old scholar of codes, I should say is fully as pious and ineffective and altogether worthless as all the other codes I have ever read.

In addition to incest, the broadcasters came out, four-square, against the advertising of phrenology, palm-reading and race track tip sheets—three of the liveliest subjects confronting our time. According to the code, you can't call a broad an alley-cat and, come to think of it, you can't call her a broad either. Not on television. Not any more.

THIS SWEEPING curtailment so moved Harold Fellows, the president of NARTB, that he issued a proclamation which brought tears to my eyes. "They (the broadcasters) have displayed a determination to visit American families as they would visit their neighbor's hearthstone," he declared, ringing like a gong.

I have no intention of going into the rest of the prohibitory or restrictive aspects of the code in detail beyond reassuring all of you that the sanctity of matrimony is suitably upheld and the evils of drug addiction are suitably condemned.

Let's pass on to the positive aspects of the code, where lie the weakness of all codes. There are a few positive declarations. The broadcaster is abjured to keep in mind that his community has cultural and educational needs, and to feed it these commodities, along with Hopalong Cassidy. He is reminded that children's moral, ethical and special ideals should be kept in mind while selling them corn flakes. They are urged to air public events, controversial issues and religion. That sums up the "thou-shalls" which are out-numbered by the "thou-shall-nots" about forty to one. These sectors are expected to stimulate as much cultural and educational activity on the air as have all prior codes, which is to say, none at all.

THE CODE was quite frankly passed to head off Senator William Benton's bill before Congress, which would set up a citizens' advisory board to keep an eye on what is and—more especially—what isn't on television. The moment the bill made an appearance, the broadcasters set up an organized hue and holler that this constituted government censorship of the air.

When Landing Gear Jammed

400-Mile-Away Directions Save Airliner Carrying 40

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 30 (AP)—An airliner carrying 40 persons came down safely last night after getting instructions 400 miles away for lowering a jammed landing gear.

The Chicago and Southern Constellation circled Moisant International Airport for two hours and 13 minutes while Flight Engineer Ed Acree of Memphis, Tenn., worked on the landing gear.

Acree, baffled after emergency measures failed to lower the giant liner's left wheel, asked C. and S. headquarters at Memphis for advice.

No admission will be charged. The film features Ben Hardisty, U. S. professional all-around ball and fly-casting champion, according to Karl J. Lindner, club secretary.

The club has been active in stocking game fish in the district. Early in the summer, it stocked blue gills in the new impounding reservoir at the village Water Works, and a few weeks ago added small, and large-mouth bass.

Stalin Warned Of Industrial Might Of U.S.

Wilson Emphasizes Lead In Steel, Other Vital Production

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 30 (AP)—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson helped dedicate a huge new steel works today and said it symbolized the might of America's growth as an arsenal against Russia.

Boasting that this country now produces as much steel in 13 weeks as the Soviet Union does in an entire year, Wilson said:

"Uncle Joe Stalin and his fellow occupants of the Kremlin may not be impressed by moral arguments or diplomatic persuasion, but they do read production figures."

They are fully aware that in modern warfare the decisive factor lies in industrial support of armies, navies and air fleets.

"So the greatest hope of avoiding a third world war is in maintaining our industrial superiority over that of the Soviet Empire."

The ceremony inaugurated the big new open hearth shop of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. When all the shop's 11 furnaces are in operation, its total production will be two million tons of ingots a year.

Wilson declared the new J. & L. works represents the first major completion of open hearth ingot facilities in the steel industry since the beginning of the current emergency.

He said it was a major step toward raising the present annual production of 107 million tons toward the 1953 goal of 118 million tons.

At the same time, he continued, the nation is doubling its aluminum production, stepping up oil drilling and refining and "adding vast amounts of electric power."

Wilson appealed for full co-operation in scrap collection drives to feed new steel-producing facilities.

He complimented the steel industry "for its constructive co-operation with defense mobilization" and asked the industry to help in "the difficult matter of distribution and allocation."

He said that direct military needs required 20 per cent of the nation's steel production, but that military-supporting production, plus needed expansion of other raw material production facilities, absorbs between 40 and 50 per cent of all steel production.

He said it is a difficult job to dole out the steel supply among all the various requirements, including school construction, and added:

"A lot of dead cats are being thrown at me and my colleagues as we try to balance military and civilian needs. But we accept these unfragrant bouquets as part of the joys of official life."

Good accompaniment for soup or salad: cut off crusts from bread slices and spread each with a little mayonnaise; toast in a hot waffle iron until lightly browned and cut into strips.

Forest Fire Hazard Exists Despite Rains

Last week-end's rain did little to erase the fire hazard in Columbia County woods and fields, Dwight Auman of Lisbon, area fire warden, said today.

Ranger for the Beaver Creek Forest, Auman said extremely dry Summer months increased the local danger tremendously. He urged hunters in particular to use care when smoking.

Residents in organized forest fire protection districts in the Southern part of the county must have burning permits for outdoor fires in October and November, Auman reminded. They can be secured free from local fire wardens.

4 More Given Cabinet Posts By Churchill

London Papers Wait First Of Domestic Policy Measures

LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today named four more members to the cabinet with which he hopes to lead Great Britain out of the economic and international crises now facing her.

He also appointed two junior ministers to the government.

Churchill called a meeting of his new cabinet today.

London newspapers wondered, meanwhile, when the Tory chief will make his first domestic policy move. One paper summed up Churchill's most pressing home front problems as "the kitty and the kitchen"—finance and food.

Churchill is expected to come to London today from his country home for continuing talks with other party men.

While forming his cabinet, the aging Churchill already has been making preliminary moves abroad. Britain's ambassador to Iran, Sir Francis Shepherd, was summoned home yesterday to discuss with his new boss, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the deadlocked British-Iranian oil dispute.

Eden also is planning a new British note to Egypt, which is trying to force British forces out of the Suez Canal area and the Sudan. There is talk that Britain's envoy to Cairo, Sir Ralph Stevenson, also may be called home for conferences on the situation there.

On the domestic scene, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express demanded today the introduction of an emergency budget to provide a revision in the tax setup.

Budgets normally are put into effect annually in April, but new ones can be brought in between times to make drastic changes in fiscal and economic policy.

The Express called editorially for an excess profits tax and a tax on speculative stock exchange profits to offset slashes in the purchase tax, which the paper demanded throughout the election campaign.

The strongly conservative Daily Mail said the government's first job is to tackle "finance and food—or the kitty and the kitchen."

Board Refuses Reds

Fresh Start On Hearing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The Subversive Activities Control Board has refused to make a completely fresh start on hearings to determine whether the Communist party should register with the Justice Department.

The hearings started last April last week, after the five-man board was reduced to three members, the Communist party moved to wipe out the whole proceeding and start over.

The board yesterday denied the request.

Hearings to determine whether the party shall register, disclosing its finances and full list of members, resumed this afternoon. About a dozen government witnesses have been heard since the lengthy proceedings started.

Mingle Named

MIAMI, Oct. 30 (AP)—The International Association of Chiefs of Police yesterday named Colonel George Mingle, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol, general chairman of its state and provincial section.

BUSINESS AS USUAL. The presence of death has little or no effect upon these patrons of a cocktail bar in a downtown hotel at Los Angeles. On the floor lies the body of George W. Miller, 35, railroad worker who died after a fight with an unidentified man. Witnesses said Miller approached a man and woman at the bar, talked to them briefly, and then engaged in a violent but short fight with the man. He toppled to the floor and died, and the man and woman fled into the night.

At Sea 30 Years, Chester Man 'Anchors' To Seek Land Legs

How does a fellow settle down were damaged by mines. On one in one place after spending 30 years, occasion he spent 18 hours on a life sailing from one part of the world raft before being picked up.

Ralston said he just missed being at Pearl Harbor when the Japs bombed it. He said the ship had just cleared the port on its way back to the States after distributing Christmas trees throughout the Pacific Islands.

He won't get too far away from the river as he plans to have a boat for use on the Ohio.

Ralston is planning to write a book on his adventures, but at present he is trying to get his sea legs adjusted to the terrain in the tri-state area.

Ralston said he signed up as an ordinary seaman at Newport News and since then has been in and out of every major port in the world. He has visited every country in the world but two—Tibet and Little America, he said.

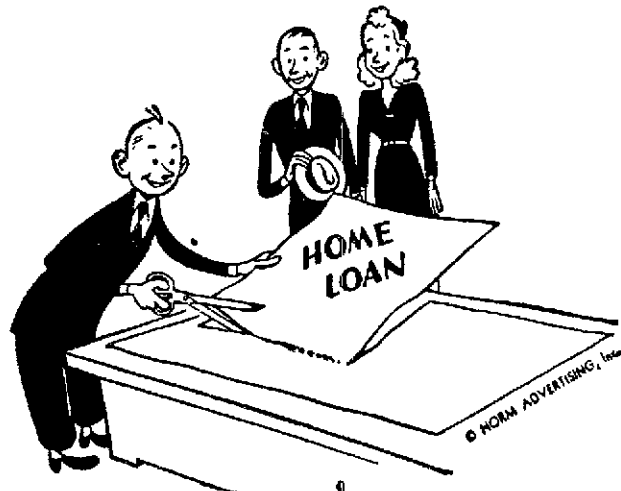

In his years on the sea he has served on every type and size of ship afloat. He has worked on ships hauling passengers and all types of merchandise from oil to Christmas trees. Ralston also served several years on the Great Lakes.

Of the countries he has visited, he has a yearning to return to Australia. The seaman said it is a very nice country in which to live. Another country he found very interesting was Palestine.

Ralston had many close calls during World War II when he served on Victory ships in both the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. His ships were hit twice by torpedoes and several other times.

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 30 (AP)—A United Nations truce negotiator said today "we're busting our guts trying to get this war settled" but the Reds are making "no attempt to get a reasonable solution."

The statement came from Major General Henry I. Hodes, chairman of the U.N. truce subcommittee, during a recess in the sixth joint subcommittee session at Panmunjom.

The negotiators met for three hours, but failed to make headway toward creating a Korean cease-fire line.

British Troops To Stand Firm In Suez Area

Cut Highway Traffic; Arab States Ponder West Plan For Pact

CAIRO, Oct. 30 (AP)—The British cut traffic for five hours today on the highway between Cairo and Ismailia, British base at the midpoint of the Suez Canal.

Egyptian officials linked the stoppage with government confirmation that the Egyptians are forming underground "liberation battalions."

There was no immediate explanation from the British for their ban, which the Egyptians said was in effect from dawn until noon.

Diplomatic representatives of the seven Arab states, meanwhile, met here today and discussed the western proposal for a Middle East defense pact. Egypt already has refused to join in such a pact until Britain moves out of the Suez and the Sudan.

Britain's troops holding tight control of the strategic waterway were told by their commander today: "We will stay until the Egyptian government returns to its senses."

The British military chief, General Sir George Erskine, in an order of the day, said the situation is "dangerous" and asked his troops to handle it "with firmness and a minimum of bitterness." He added that "necessary steps have been taken to maintain our position."

France Denies Legion Recruits German Men

PARIS, Oct. 30 (AP)—France "does not recruit Germans or anyone else" for the French Foreign Legion, but anyone can join if he wants, a government spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman was commenting on published reports that German parliamentary leaders were demanding an end to legion recruitment of Germans as part of the peace contract now being negotiated by the West Germans and the Allies.

"There are no nationality requirements for joining the French Foreign Legion," said the informant. He added that a number of Germans already had joined, but said the exact number was not known. Many Germans are serving in Foreign Legion units now fighting Communist-led Viet Minh forces in Indochina.

WHY SHOULD YOU BE FORCED TO RISK YOUR MONEY IN SOME OTHER PERSON'S BUSINESS?

WOULD YOU
DO THESE THINGS
VOLUNTARILY?

1. WOULD YOU LOAN YOUR MONEY IN BUSINESSES YOU NEVER HEARD OF?
2. WOULD YOU LOAN YOUR MONEY IN ENTERPRISES THAT COULDN'T OR WOULDN'T GET MONEY FROM ANY PRIVATE BANK?
3. WOULD YOU LOAN YOUR MONEY IN BUSINESSES WHERE YOU RECEIVED NONE OF THE PROFIT BUT WERE FORCED TO PAY THE LOSSES?

BUT YOU ARE FORCED TO DO THESE THINGS BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

IN THE PEACE-TIME YEAR 1949, VARIOUS GOVERNMENT CORPORATIONS WERE USING—

SOME OF THESE LOANS WERE MADE BY—

RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORP.	----- $ 1,782,000,000

FARMERS HOME ADMINISTRATION	----- 514,000,000
PUBLIC HOUSING ADMINISTRATION	----- 285,000,000

THUS—

YOU'VE LOST YOUR LIBERTY TO CHOOSE WHETHER TO RISK YOUR EARNINGS IN ONE OF THESE BUSINESSES. YOUR PROPERTY HAS BEEN TAKEN AWAY BY TAXES FOR WHATEVER PURPOSES GOVERNMENT PLANNERS DECIDE.

IF OUR GOVERNMENT IS NOT TO INTERFERE WITH THE LIBERTY AND PROPERTY OF AMERICAN CITIZENS, THE PEOPLE MUST INSIST ON A MORAL PURPOSE FOR OUR GOVERNMENT!

EVERY INDIVIDUAL has certain natural rights — the right to LIFE, the right to LIBERTY, the right to earn and use PROPERTY as he pleases. We call these rights "natural" because they are God-given. Would God have created each individual with different abilities and preferences if these differences were not to be expressed freely? And isn't property an extension of the different talents and abilities with which individuals are born? Thus these natural rights are supremely important and individuals have the right to defend them from the interference of other individuals — even by using force if that is necessary.

So men create a common force — a government — to protect their individual God-given rights at all times. Therefore, the moral purpose of government is this:

"TO MAKE AND ENFORCE LAWS WHICH PROTECT EVERY INDIVIDUAL'S GOD-GIVEN LIFE, LIBERTY AND PROPERTY FROM THE INTERFERENCE OF ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL OR GROUP — AND THESE LAWS MUST ALSO PROTECT THE PEOPLE FROM GOVERNMENT ITSELF."

Government must use force to protect the rights of its citizens effectively. So while government is a necessity, it is at the same time dangerous. The danger is that government may use its power to take away the rights of citizens, by depriving them of their liberty or by forcing them to do things with their property that they would not do voluntarily. When this happens the original moral purpose of government is perverted and government becomes immoral.

Auxiliary Project Provides Hospital Patients With Books

A new service for City Hospital patients—free library books—has been put in operation through the efforts of the hospital's women's auxiliary.

Mrs. Harold Chandler, president of the auxiliary, said volunteers from the organization have begun taking books around to convalescent patients every Tuesday and Friday.

The patients may select the books they want and keep them, without charge, for the period of their convalescence.

All of the books have been contributed under the supervision of a special library committee headed by Mrs. Leon Rubin.

In addition to the library service, Mrs. Chandler reported the auxiliary also has been able to give the hospital an X-ray cart, several over-bed tables, which slide into position in front of the patient for reading or eating, and some bedside tables and chairs.

Money for the articles has come from a number of Twigs, which devote their service to the hospital, and some clubs have sent checks, Mrs. Chandler said.

The auxiliary itself raises money through collecting sales stamps. It is the only women's group directly affiliated with the hospital, and has a membership limited to 40.

Every other Friday, members gather at the hospital to make dressings for the institution.

Speaking of the stand by Protestant churches on President Truman's action, the bishop declared: "This has shown our need to re-examine ourselves and to reaffirm our policies. It is causing a great inner strengthening of Protestant churches."

Vols Remain Solid Choice In Grid Poll

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Tennessee remained a solid choice as the No. 1 team in the country in the Associated Press fifth weekly football poll today.

The unbeaten Vols, who swamped Tennessee Tech last Saturday, 69-0, garnered 1,213 points and 59 first-place votes from the sports writers and sportscasters across the nation.

Trailing in second place was Michigan State, which also was the runner-up last week. The Spartans notched 1,131 points but had only 25 first-place votes. They defeated Pitt, 53-26, Saturday.

The rest of the first 10 included Illinois, No. 3; Maryland, No. 4; Georgia Tech No. 5; Princeton, No. 6; Southern California, No. 7; Baylor, No. 8; California, No. 9; and Wisconsin, No. 10.

The first six teams in the poll are among the nation's undefeated and untied eleven. Southern Cal., seventh, has been beaten once, while Baylor is unbeaten but has been tied.

Strangely, Stanford of the Pacific Coast Conference, with a 6-0 mark, could not do better than 11th. San Francisco, another team with an unblemished record—6-0 is No. 20.

Only one newcomer joined the first 10. That was Wisconsin, which jumped to 10th from 14th after its 41-0 triumph over previously undefeated Northwestern, Texas, which scored a 14-6 victory over Rice, dropped out of the select circle, winding up in 12th place.

There was some shuffling inside the first 10, though. Georgia Tech, which had been hot on the trail of both Tennessee and Michigan State, dropped to fifth. Southern California and Baylor also slipped one notch each.

As a reward for its startling 33-15 shellacking of Cornell, Princeton jumped from eighth to sixth. Illinois and Maryland also advanced in the rankings. They were, respectively, fourth and fifth last week.

The points were awarded on a basis of 10 for first, nine for second and so on down the line.

The first 10, with team records and first place votes in parentheses:

	Points
1. Tennessee (5-0) (59)	1,213
2. Michigan State (6-0) (25)	1,131
3. Illinois (5-0) (15)	1,022
4. Maryland (5-0) (22)	905
5. Georgia Tech (6-0) (9)	904
6. Princeton (5-0) (41)	891
7. Southern Cal. (6-1) (7)	664
8. Baylor (4-0-1)	345
9. California (5-1)	319
10. Wisconsin (3-1-1) (2)	287

W. Va. Athletic Body Explains Gary Rating

BECKLEY, W. Va., Oct. 30 (AP)—The State High School Athletic Association explained today why Gary's football point rating up to last week end was based only on five Coalgider victories.

Two of Gary's seven triumphs prior to last Friday's 33-0 conquest of Grundy, Va., were at the expense of Class B teams. One such victim was Mooseheart, Ill., handed only its third loss in 15 many seasons by Gary.

Van's absence from last week's Class B ratings was due to that school's loss to Class A Seth. Van had elected before the season began to count all its games, including those against Class A opposition, for rating purposes.

Liverpool Freshmen Face B. Falls Thursday

Turned back, 13-0, by a combined Wellsville freshman and reserve team, the East Liverpool Plebe gridders hope to bounce back Thursday afternoon in their game at Beaver Falls against the reserves of that school.

Coach Lou Venditti's Little Potters, whose record now is one win, one loss and one tie, will travel to Steubenville Nov. 8 to meet the Big Red Frosh, and conclude their schedule against an All-Star Grade School team at Patterson Field on the afternoon of Nov. 14.

'Accident' Made Kluska Xavier U.'s Grid Coach

CINCINNATI, Oct. 30 (AP)—Ed Kluska, coach of Xavier University's unbeaten football team, is an "accident" a lot of his rivals wish hadn't happened.

He looks more like a bank clerk. He says he never had any coaching ambitions. And he says it was an "accident" that he became a coach.

But here are the figures. In the last three seasons, up to now, his Xavier teams have won 24 games, lost only two and tied one. Even without one losing campaign at Xavier, Kluska's five teams have won 32 games, lost 12 and tied two.

This year his Musketeers are unbeaten in seven games. They were tied by the Camp Lejeune Marines.

Kluska not only doesn't look like a football coach, he doesn't act like one. He doesn't use a "crying towel" and he doesn't try to build up next week's foe into "bogey men."

He just says "Every team can be tough."

This is how the be-spectacled 33-year-old coach explains his "start in the precarious business of building football teams:

"Back in the spring of 1940, I thought I was through with football forever. I was a senior at Xavier and my playing days were over and I was concentrating on moving into the business world.

"The telephone rang one day. On the other end was Clem Crowe, the football coach. He told me one of his assistants was ill and asked if I would help out. I did and I've been a football coach since, purely by accident, you might say."

After helping out at Xavier, Kluska coached Cincinnati Purcell High School to 35 victories, one defeat and two ties in four years.

Then he went back to Xavier. Two years ago his Xavier team lost only to Kentucky in 10 games and played in the Salad Bowl game at Phoenix, Ariz. It won that one, too, beating Arizona State (Tempe) and Cincinnati gave Xavier its only defeat.

This year's team, powerful on defense as is all Kluska-built combinations, has allowed its seven opponents only a total of 411 yards by rushing.

"I believe a good defense is a good offense," says Kluska, again going counter to most coaches.

But it apparently works. His 1951 team has whipped Quantico Marines, St. Bonaventure, Miami of Ohio, Youngstown, Louisville and Dayton.

Neither Kluska nor Xavier have indicated any desire to go into what is often called the "big time" of football. The coach and school say they realize Xavier is comparatively small and as proof Kluska points to the fact that he can count only 39 players on his squad—a far cry from the 55 or 60 he often sees and will see sitting across the field.

Finland Works Hard On '52 Olympic Games

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (UP)—Finland, a little nation with big ideas, is going all out to make the 1952 summer Olympic Games a success.

Officials of the Finnish organizing committee, using the 1936 Berlin games as their model, have been working night and day for three years now to carry out their careful and minute planning.

Probably no nation ever has been awarded the games with so little to work with as Finland. It had a fine stadium and other athletic fields in Helsinki, but little more. There was no housing, not enough hotels, too few means of transportation, and not enough money because of heavy war reparations to Russia.

But through diligent work and planning the officers have been overcoming the problems one by one.

Massillon Holds Lead Despite Loss To Warren

Receiving state-wide recognition for the first time since the unbeaten Potters of 1945, East Liverpool today was rated 32nd among Ohio's High School eleven.

Triple threat Eddie Oliver also got a "plug" as a potential all-state candidate, his 95-yard touchdown jaunt on the opening kickoff and 20 points against Martins Ferry drawing comment.

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 30 (AP)—Massillon's High School football crown was a bit askew today—but the Stark county Tigers were still perched on the throne.

Chuck Mather's mighty men absorbed their first loss in 21 games Friday night, 19-13, at the hands of twice-beaten Warren, but 35 newspaper and radio sports editors decided in the weekly Associated Press poll that the Tigers deserve the nod as the state's best.

The Massillon margin was a slim 124 points, however, a huge drop from last week's resounding 85-point edge when the Tigers were storming toward their fourth straight title without a blemish.

A week ago 20 of 32 writers named the Tigers as their No. 1 choice. Today they had only four first-place selections, along with a vote split with Steubenville's Big Red.

Warren, although beaten twice, jumped from ninth to second in the poll as a reward for the startling upset, but Steubenville was only a point and a half off the runner-up pace. Steubenville, beaten 13-6 by Massillon in the last 10 seconds a few weeks ago, meets Warren Nov. 9.

Hamilton, Springfield, Lima Central, Barborton, Zanesville, Cleveland Collinwood and Fremont Ross follow the leaders in that order as the voters juggled the standings.

Dave Rogers, Warren's mighty fullback, gained 164 yards in 27 tries as the Panthers whipped the Tigers for the third time since 1944.

From here and there: The top five teams in the Big 10 have been defeated. . . The second quietest have not. Lima Central and Springfield have the big one on tap this week end. . . Lima Central handed Van Wert its first defeat last week, 30-0. . . Others whipped for the first time included Cleveland Heights and Dublin, along with Massillon.

Hubert Bobo, the point-collecting star of Chauncey Dover, had quite a week end. . . He tallied 31 points Friday night as Oak Hill fell, 50-14, and came back for 30 in the first half Saturday to whip Jacksonsville-Tribble, 60-6. That gave him a two-day count of 61 and boosted his state-leading total to 241 in eight games, far above the 199 with which Upper Arlington's Doug Goodsell paced the pack a year ago.

Other leadings scorers include Sammy Mascotti of Dover St. Joe, 184; Dick Basich of Delta, 174; Bill Kenworthy of Cardington, 164; Barney Gladioux of Toledo Clay, 123; and Carl Smith of Washington C.H., 117.

Unbeaten in seven games, but failing to reach the Big 10, were such teams as St. Stanislaus and Rhodes of Cleveland, Wellston, Youngstown East, Minerva, Warren St. Marys, New London, Londville, Ashland, Washington C.H., Cardington, Cincinnati Central, Delta and Dover St. Joe. Butler and Wintersville have six straight, Lockland Wayne 5.

New Albany defeated Mifflin, 14-0, its first victory since 1948. . . Jerry Johnson passed 19 yards to Jerry Trabue on a play started just as the final shot fired, and the resulting touchdown gave Columbus West a 20-19 win over Columbus North. . . Homer Wallace of Columbus East returned kickoffs 88 and 85 yards for touchdowns against South.

Steubenville's Rudy Nixon, on the defensive platoon until Friday, scored four touchdowns in the 55-12 rout of Akron East, and defensive End El Pilya booted seven straight conversions in his first chance at that chore. . . Yorkville suffered its first loss, 7-6, to Chester, W. Va., the same score by which Shady Side in 1948 and Dillonvale in 1949 deprived the Yorks of a perfect season.

Eddie Oliver of East Liverpool scored all the points as the Potters defeated Martins Ferry, 20-19, his first TD being a 95-yarder on the opening kickoff. . . Springfield rolled up 459 yards and never punted in the 33-6 win over Dayton Wilbur Wright. . . Hamilton's 68-0 win over Portsmouth was the worst defeat in Trojan history. Bobby Lakes pitching his 18th and 19th touchdown passes, and Don Nuxhall booting eight of 10 conversions, Middletown passed on 38 of 66 plays in defeating Lima South, 33-6, but connected on only 14, leading Coach Glenn Ellison to remark "When we want to hold the score down we take to the air." . . Five Alliance scouts watched the Midlands. . . Bob Bassitt of Lima Central has kicked 28 of 33 conversions, plus three field goals, as his club outscored seven victims an average of 34 to 4.

Lancaster's surprising 13-7 win over Newark was its first over that team since 1939. Eddie Shupling going 66 and 76 yards for the scores. . . Monty Landis, Newark's sterling center, fractured his right leg. . . Bob Arnold scored two touchdowns as Canton Lehman beat Akron Kenmore, 13-6, giving him 90 points for the campaign. . . Mt. Galead defeated Plymouth, 15-0, after each had lost six straight.

Sandusky's great fullback, Ted Schwanger, has added passing to his talents. . . He pitched three for scores against Lorain, and came back Friday for two against Cleveland Lincoln. . . Zanesville's 20-0 win over Chillicothe assured the Blue Devils their third Central Ohio loop title in a row.

John (Big Thunder) Lewis, of Fremont Ross, touted as the best back Northwestern Ohio has boasted

Youngstown East's powerhouse has beaten six of its seven victims by margins ranging from four to nine touchdowns, and has yielded only 25 points. . . Louis' Income Tax Settlement Hits 'Snag'

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (AP)—Joe Louis' possible compromise settlement of income tax indebtedness appeared delayed indefinitely today because of his reluctance to announce his retirement from the ring.

John T. Jarecki, collector of internal revenue for the Northern Illinois District, said that a coming to quit fighting and proves inability to pay his full tax.

"You can't get blood out a turnip," Jarecki said. "The glamor is worn off Louis now. He's through (as a boxer)."

Jarecki declined to disclose the amount owned by the former heavyweight champion for 1947 and 1948. Unverified reports were that the sum approximated $100,000.

The 37-year-old Brown Bomber, flattened in the eighth round by Rocky Marciano in Madison Square Garden Friday night, decided not to announce his retirement plans yesterday. He called off a scheduled press conference. Louis is to leave New York on Nov. 10 to make a boxing tour of Japan and will not announce any positive decision until his return.

Theodore Jones, a certified public accountant, said Louis has paid his taxes for 1945 and 1946 and has been depositing substantial amounts on his settlement offer since he started his comeback in September, 1950.

Jones, who works for Louis, told a (Chicago Tribune) reporter yesterday Louis has no assets that he can turn into cash, not even annuities. He said Louis cashed in his $50,000 word of annuities during World War II to aid non-commissioned buddies.

May Drop Football
CLEVELAND, Oct. 30 (AP)—So few students are interested in football at John Hay High School that it may be dropped next year. At recent practices coaches were forced to play in place of absentees. The school, which trains students for office work, has only 180 male pupils. It has lost all five of its games this year.

To Clash In 36th Tilt; Bengals Tackle Linsly

It'll be homecoming for East Liverpool's rampaging pigskin Potters Friday night when Salem's once-beaten Quakers invade Patterson Field for the traditional scrap that will bring the two schools together for the 36th time.

It's the topker of a eight-game district card, seven of which are scheduled Friday.

Another squad—Fairfield Township's six-man gridders—close out the season at home against Bethesda in the only afternoon affair on the card. The Comets will be shooting for their seventh victory in eight games.

Wellsville's resurgent Bengals, with two straight triumphs under their belts, will tackle a strong Linsly Institute eleven from Wheeling at Nicholson Stadium Friday night. The Bengals will be gunning for their fourth victory in eight games.

Midland, derailed by New Brighton, will be on the rebound against a potent Trinity High squad from Washington in another Friday night battle at Midland. The Leopards have won four, lost three and tied one.

In another traditional tilt, Lisbon's Blue Devils will travel to Columbiana the same evening as Lisbon seeks its sixth win in eight starts and the Clippers strive for their fifth against a pair of setbacks and a tie.

Rounding out the Friday night card will be East Palestine, with a 3-3 record, hosting Louisville, and Leetonia, with a 1-6 mark, entertaining Sebring, both Tri-County League affairs.

Saturday night the Chester Panthers, their four-game winning streak snapped by Brookfield, will journey to Darlington, Pa. where the Purple and Gold will seek their fifth victory in eight games.

Next week it'll be the end of the line for four more squads—Midland, East Palestine, Columbiana and Leetonia—all scheduled to conclude their 1951 seasons.

East Liverpool, Wellsville, Chester, Salem and Lisbon wind up the following week, the Potters and Bengals squaring off in their annual tussle, the Quakers and Blue Devils in their traditional battle and the Panthers against Tiltonsville.

The Liverpool-Salem game this week, the Liverpool-Wellsville fray on Nov. 16 and the Salem-Lisbon tilt Nov. 17 will determine the mythical county championship.

Tampa Students Seek Blood For Rival Player

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 30 (AP)—Student Leaders at the University of Tampa called a meeting today to get blood donors for a rival football player.

Gerald Adams, 185-pound sophomore tackle for Appalachian State College at Boone, N.C., is in serious condition in Tampa Municipal Hospital. He received a kidney injury in Appalachian's 14-13 victory Friday over Tampa.

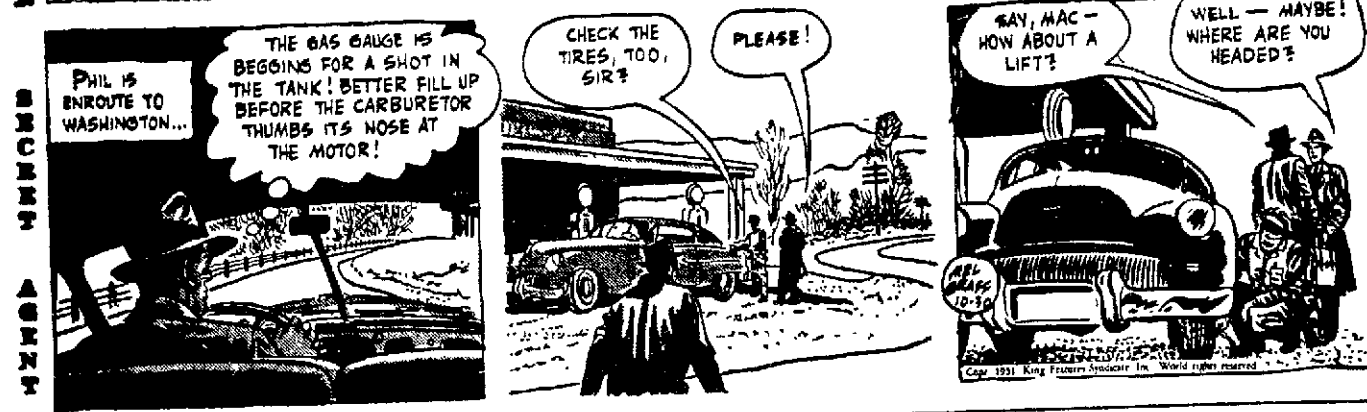

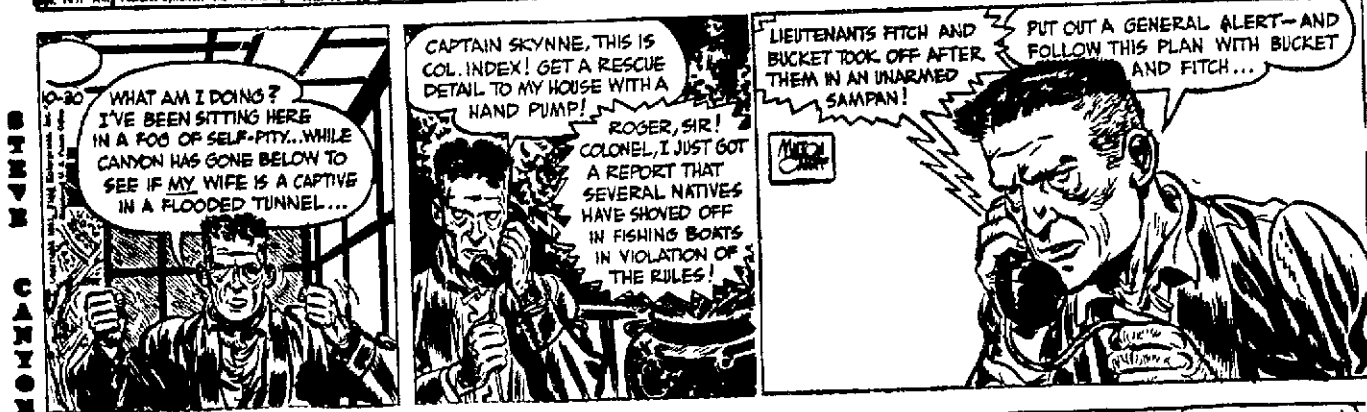

When it became known yesterday that Adams needed blood transfusions, members of the Tampa team volunteered 100 per cent. They were turned down by doctors, however, because the loss of blood might prevent their playing this week.

Several other students volunteered as donors late yesterday and were accepted. Today's meeting was planned to spread the word that more blood was needed.

Medal Of Honor Awarded
2 Young Marine Officers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—President Truman Monday tendered the nation's highest award for heroes—the Congressional Medal of Honor—to two young Marine officers who achieved "incredible victories" in the fighting in Korea.

The ceremony was in the rose garden of the White House for Majors Ronald R. Myers, 31, of Boise, Idaho, and Carl L. Sitter, 29, of Pueblo, Colo.

Truman spoke of his "very great pleasure" in being able to help honor "two very brave young men". He said he would rather have the Congressional Medal of Honor than occupy the White House.

Secretary of Defense Lovett, Secretary of the Navy Kimball, and high ranking officers of the Marine Corps were on hand for the ceremony.

Myers and Sitter are now stationed at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., where officers are trained. They are on the staff there.

The Marine Corps gave these accounts of their achievements.

Myers was ordered to recapture a dominating hill which had been seized by a reinforced Communist regiment in November of last year. He began his attack on the snow-covered 600-foot high hill with only 250 men, in full view of the enemy.

After 14 hours of raging combat, he and his 70 remaining fighting men firmly held the hill and had beaten back an estimated 4,000 districts.

Birth Control Planned
For India's Poverty-Hit

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30 (AP)—India's poverty-stricken millions are to be the subject of history's first nationwide experiment in birth control.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, director-general of the World Health Organization, said today an educational program under the auspices of the Indian government will start soon.

The technique to be taught, he said, will be the rhythm method.

No religious objections have been expressed, Chisholm reported, indicating the rhythm method does not conflict with Moslem or Hindu doctrine.

The program will be started in India's great industrial areas and then spread to rural areas.

PONDERING the new income tax problem model Charlene Boucher, six months old, nervously munches her social security card in Chicago. Depressed because the first 60 days of her life were spent in idleness, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Boucher applied for and was granted a social security card.

Theme Song Introduced

1,000 At Entertainment
In Support Of School Bonds

About 1,000 East Liverpool residents took a sugar-coated pill Monday night at the Memorial Auditorium. It tasted good, going down because it was wrapped up in a 2½-hour entertainment. It contained the bitter medicine that a bond issue must be passed to relieve the painful condition of outmoded school buildings and a prescription to follow Nov. 6.

The affair was called the "Big Show—a free treat by the Citizens Committee for Better Schools to keep the public thinking about the bond issue for new buildings which will appear on local ballots next Tuesday.

From the Western ballads of the Ridge Runners, who opened the program, until the final, impressive, "Benediction" by the High School Chorus, the audience was entertained with all the local talent that could be mustered. It turned out to be considerable.

Presiding as master of ceremonies was Dick Larkins, athletic director at Ohio State University, and a home-town boy who came back to give a lift to the school program.

He paraded out the acts in effective fashion, bringing on the Jolly Boys quartet after the Ridge Runners, and following up their close harmonies with a peppy change of pace—the Polka Serenaders from Youngstown.

They were followed by another quartet, the Scale Schemers, and then a break was taken to show the specially-produced movie "Your Home Town", throwing on the screen for all to see the older condition of five of the city's older schools which will be replaced if the vote on a $2,725,000 bond issue is successful.

After the movie, a surprise turned up in the form of a "theme song" for the school campaign—a parody on "Wait Till the Sun Shines Nellie" written by Mrs. Clara Hall of the Tri-State Theater Guild and distributed to the audience on mimeographed slips during the intermission for the movie.

An octet from the High School ran through the piece first. Then, after the members of the Theater Guild had put on a little bit of poking fun at school days, the audience was invited to try its vocal chords on the number.

The Barber Shop Chorus appeared next, blending some fun, old songs, and then came the High School Chorus, singing a program

Webb Stockholders,
Directors Will Meet

Two special meetings will be held at the Webb Corp. Wednesday for the Board of Directors at 1 p. m. and another for stockholders at 2 in the brewery firm's offices.

Stockholders will consider the reorganization proposal to increase the common stock to 100,000 shares at $1 per share, and to vote on moving the concern's principal offices from Akron to East Liverpool.

The company has been operating on a curtailed basis since Columbus County Common Pleas Court placed it under a voluntary receivership on the petition of local creditors Bamer and Richard Crabbe.

Other creditors have asked Federal Court to declare it bankrupt, but this has been held up pending possible reorganization including the stock issuance.

"NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP . . ."

DEAR VOTER:

"PLEASE, may all youngsters have decent schools" . . . that's the prayer I breathed silently as I waited for my small daughter to repeat the familiar "Now I lay me down" words that I, too, learned at my mother's knee.

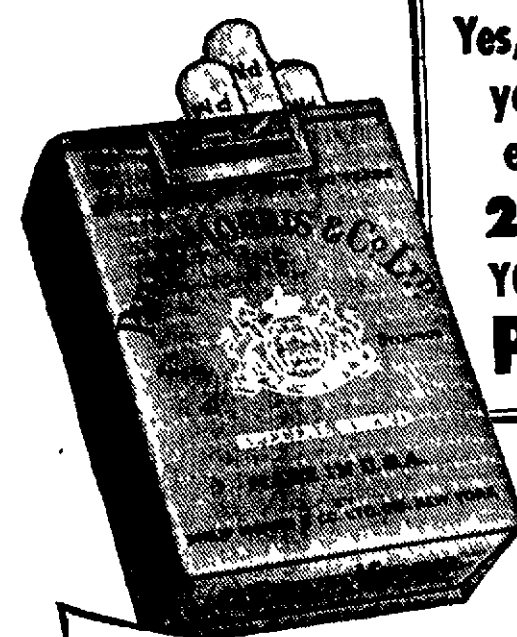

For we've been talking about school tonight . . . just she and I. She told me about Johnny, who's forever teasing her in his small-boy way . . . about Sally, who wore a new coat today . . . about the amazing new things she studied . . . and what teacher said about the PTA meeting—all the vitally important things, the tremendous, tiny things that filled her mind . . . some told with giggles, some in whispers, some with tears.

She's asleep now, her doll cuddled close, secure in the knowledge she is safe with those who love her. But, I am awake . . . thinking again of tomorrow when my small daughter returns to a whole new world filled with strange and wondrous things . . . for she is still so very young . . . so very dear to me.

And when she leaves me for School each day, she's in the hands of others and I'm worried. But you can help . . . for I'm sure we both know how important it is, for my child and yours, that we have some new school buildings . . . I've seen the old ones . . . and I'm so ashamed. Won't you please help me?

"PLEASE, may all youngsters have decent schools" . . .
